CONVICT SLAIN IN ALCATRAZ BREAK

Husband Jailed

With her face showing the strain of the tragedy in which she is involved, Mrs. Esther Hoffman Holle, 22-year-old wife of Edward Holle, Newark, N. J., mechanic held by police in connection with the strangling of his former sweetheart, whose chain-wrapped body was recently recovered from the Passaic River, is pictured above with her pet dog. She told interviewers that she would stand by her husband, declaring "I love Edward more than ever."

CALL WITNESSES IN LEGISLATURE QUIZ

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 24.—(UP)—Legislation affecting California's motor vehicles and sardine industry probably will be the first subjects considered at the Sacramento county grand jury inquiry into asserted corrupt practices by state legislators, it was indicated

Garlic Fades In Popularity

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 24.—(UP)—Garlic, the vegetable cousin of limburger and tear gas bombs, is becoming unpopular, according to statistics of the California crop reporting service.

Possibly due to the anti-halitosis advertising campaigns, the production of garlic during the past four years has been steadily decreasing. This year there are 200 less planted acres.

Low prices paid the growers in 1937 is the main cause for the decrease, according to the crop service. But there's comfort for garlic addicts. There are still 2260 acres of the vegetable planted in California.

CREATE $200,000 AREA

A resolution creating a sewer maintenance district at Dana Point, and fixing a date for hearing protests June 14 at 11 a. m., was passed by the county supervisors today. Supervisor N. E. West estimated that $200,000 in work was needed to modernize the Dana Point sanitary system.

West Hit In Stand On Oil Fight

H. B. MAYOR IN ATTACK

A hot tilt between Mayor M. M. McCallen of Huntington Beach and Supervisor N. E. West of Laguna Beach, with a brief side passage-at-arms between West and Chairman Willard Smith of Orange, today accompanied action of the board of supervisors in passing a resolution condemning proposed federal seizure of the Huntington Beach oil pool and other California "submerged lands."

West protested and opposed the board's action, using the occasion to fire one of his familiar broadsides against the Standard Oil company, Attorney General U. S. Webb and the state administrations, which he claims have sold out the people's interests to Standard Oil.

Mayor McCallen's appearance before the board today, on behalf of himself and other independent oil operators at Huntington Beach, was the signal for West to immediately

GERMAN PRESS RAPS CZECH "INCIDENTS"

BERLIN, May 24.—(UP)—The German press, quiescent during the peace discussions in Prague, released a new torrent of denunciation of Czech border incidents today.

The recriminations coincided with the departure from Prague of Konrad Henlein, Sudeten German leader, after his talk with Premier Milan Hodza.

New Crisis Seen

It was believed in informed quarters that the situation might again become acutely critical should frontier violations recur or Germans be injured inside or out-

Murder Report False Alarm

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 24.—(UP)—Deputy sheriffs, investigating a report the body of a man had been discovered on a ranch in the Sweetwater Valley, early today, found ranchers holding a 25-year-old Mexican—but no body.

According to Sgt. Blake Mason, the youth told ranchers he had seen the body.

Mason said the youth either was intoxicated or mentally unbalanced.

Mason brought the youth, whose name was withheld, to the jail here for investigation.

Sees Oil Seizure Bill Defeat

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., May 24.—(UP)—Defeat of a Senate bill empowering the federal government to seize all oil bearing tidelands was predicted today by Sen. William Gibbs McAdoo in a telegram to the Santa Barbara News-Press.

Expressing personal opposition to the measure, the California Democrat said he believed the bill would fail passage because it "infringes on the sovereignty of the state and rights of the state, political units and individuals."

Kynette In Rap At Fitts

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—(UP)—Earle Kynette, suspended head of the Los Angeles police spy squad, became his own witness in defense of a charge of bombing Harry Raymond, private investigator, and gave sensational testimony in which the name of District Attorney Buron Fitts was featured.

Kynette and his two pals, Fred Browne and Roy Allen, are charged with conspiracy to commit murder in connection with the bombing of Raymond last Jan. 14.

SUPERVISOR HOME; BRINGS BACK $4421

Supervisor Harry D. Riley, of Anaheim, was back home today from Washington, D. C., with a $4421.95 reimbursement by PWA for county funds expended on La Veta storm drain project to show for his weeks in the national capital.

He had other things to report, also: A number of important contacts that will, he said, keep Orange county faithfully advised of matters affecting its interests in Washington; word that the $150,000 congressional allocation to Prado dam this year has passed both house and senate and will shortly be acted upon finally in conference; the opinion that only WPA funds will be available for emergency flood protection work, with nothing definite assured.

Jail CCC Youths In Morals Case

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—(UP)—Five CCC youths, members of a "love nest circle" in suburban Glendora, were accused today of statutory offenses against high school girls.

Four of the youths were accused of attacking a 13 year old girl, daughter of a socially prominent Glendora family. They are Jack Merker, 19; Edward Mirtle, 19; Donald Southern, 20, and Edward Calkins, 18. A fifth youth, Robert Brady, 18, was charged with an offense against a 17 year old girl. The girls' names were withheld.

The youths were arraigned late yesterday on complaints issued by the district attorney and held for a hearing May 27 under $1000 bail each.

Five Killed In Laboratory Blast

MIDLAND, Mich., May 24.—The death toll from a blast in the research department of Dow Chemical company increased to five today. A sixth worker was burned.

The dead: John E. Hoy, 53, experimental engineer; Paul Parsons, 26, machine operator; Fred Reynolds, 32, metallurgist; George Weidemann, 40, research worker; and Philip Kryszminski, 27, laboratory worker.

The sixth man given a chance by doctors to recover was Claire Harris, 29, a research worker.

Officials of the chemical firm sought an explanation for the blast which showered the victims with molten metal as a huge melting pot exploded.

Four Newspapers Halt Publication

NEW YORK, May 24.—(Special)—Four daily newspapers have suspended publication in the east and south, Editor and Publisher, national magazine of newspaper owners and operators, revealed today.

The Portland (Me.) Daily News, evening paper, established 10 years ago, discontinued publication May 18, Publisher James E. MacPherson giving no reason for the action.

Financial difficulties were given as the reasons for discontinuing publication of the Alexandria (La.) Daily Times which began publication March 13. No reason was given for suspending publication of the Columbus (Ga.) News-Record on May 10.

It was reported the Victoria (Tex.) Commentator, morning daily, suspended publication due to financial difficulties.

Montana's Worst Snowstorm In 59 Years

Snow falling almost continuously for more than 80 hours within a 50-mile radius of Butte, Mont., blanketed the city and environs 18 inches to 3 feet in depth, as pictured above. Communications were crippled and early crops were damaged. Motorists who were able to move at all dug out cars piled high with snow. It was the worst spring storm in 59 years in Montana.

Alleged Secret Nazi Society Is Linked With Desert Murder Case

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—(UP)—The Dragons, a secret organization allegedly affiliated with the Nazi Silver Shirts, today was injected into the slaying and desert burial of Mrs. Leona May Schmidt, wealthy widow.

Robert Gardner jr., 42, arrested early today as an admitted accomplice of Valean Neil Ross, after Ross confessed slaying his mother-in-law, Mrs. Schmidt, thought he was aiding an organization known as the Dragons in disposing of Mrs. Schmidt's body, it was brought out at the Schmidt inquest.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict accusing Ross of the murder but made no recommendations.

SECRETARY ICKES, 64, "SLIPS ONE OVER;" WEDS RED-HEAD, 25

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes, 64-year-old widower and Miss Jane Dahlman, 25, petite red-headed Smith college graduate were married today in a surprise ceremony at Dublin, Ireland, culminating a sheltered romance and a secret trans-Atlantic crossing.

Bridegroom

Sixty-four-year-old Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, above, after slipping out of the United States in a secret crossing to Ireland, today became the husband of Miss Jane Dahlman, 25, petite red-headed Smith College graduate. First word of the ceremony came to Washington today from Dublin, Ireland, where the couple were united at Adelaide Road church by the Rev. Dr. R. T. Hanna.

The wedding took Washington and most New Deal intimates of the cabinet officer by surprise. Outside of a few close friends, the capital was unaware of the romance or even of the fact that Ickes had secretly dropped his multifarious administration duties and sailed for Europe.

Secret Romance

Both romance and the wedding plans had been carried forward with utmost circumspection. First word came to the capital with the announcement that the ceremony had been performed in Dublin, at 9 a. m. today at Adelaide Road church by the Rev. Dr. R. T. Hanna.

Friends said that Miss Dahlman, attractive sister of the wife of Ickes' late adopted son, Wilmarth, had gone abroad some weeks ago. Then, a few days ago she went to Dublin as the guest of her uncle, John Cudahy, U. S. minister to

MAIL CLERK ARRESTED

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(UP)—District Attorney David L. Pine announced today that a clerk in the White House mailing room has been arrested and is held on a charge of petit larceny.

Pine identified the prisoner as William S. Buchly who has been employed in the mailing room more than five years. He was arrested Sunday by White House police after secret service operatives set a trap for him and he allegedly was caught stealing three marked $1 bills from the mail.

Walt Disney To Build New Plant

HOLLYWOOD, May 24.—(UP)—The family of Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, the Seven Dwarfs, etc., has grown so fast that Walt Disney today was planning a new and bigger studio for them.

Disney, who brought cartoon movies into their present popularity in Hollywood, was employing a staff of 100 when he opened his present quarters. He now hires 700, and reportedly is considering building a new studio in Westwood near the 20th Century-Fox plant.

Disney is forced to employ a large staff, because so many artists are required to draw each separate move of his animated characters. Each of the thousands of separate pictures is colored by hand.

FALL PROVES FATAL

SAN FRANCISCO, May 24.—(UP)—Cornelis Connell, 28 year old insurance salesman for the California Auto Club, was killed last night in an accidental plunge from a third story apartment window.

Connell apparently fell out of a chair in which he had been sleeping and fell through an open window, police said.

'Biscuit-Admiral Match Race Off

NEW YORK, May 24.—(UP)—The $100,000 special race between War Admiral and Seabiscuit scheduled for Decoration day was called off today by Charles S. Howard, owner of Seabiscuit, it was learned at Belmont Park.

Seabiscuit, 1937 handicap champion and leading money-winner was reported suffering from a charley horse which prevented him from continuing training for the match race.

C. V. Whitney, chairman of the board of Belmont Park, announced the cancellation after a conference with Howard and Herbert B. Swope, chairman of the New York Racing Commission.

"Seabiscuit's legs have been bothering him and he hasn't been able to train properly," Whitney explained.

"We deeply regret that Seabiscuit has not trained as we felt he should," Howard said. "Definite indications that his legs are bothering him became apparent within the last few days."

Howard was bitterly disappointed at Seabiscuit's failure to round into form, but explained he felt it was his duty to the public to call the race off.

"Recognizing our obligation, we had planned to work the horse today to finally determine his condition," he said. "This morning, however, it was plain that to work him might endanger him permanently and with the consent of the Westchester Racing Association and the New York State Racing Commission, we decided not to work him and to withdraw from the race."

SANTA ANA BANKER, ATTORNEY FACE COURT CONTEMPT CHARGE

J. L. Bascom, assistant cashier of the First National bank in Santa Ana, and Fred Forgy, well-known attorney for the bank, today faced a citation to appear in superior court next Friday, to show cause why Bascom should not be punished for contempt of court, as the result of an affidavit filed by R. L. Wilhelm, Los Angeles accountant, who accused Forgy of a ruse to prevent Bascom from giving a disposition, as directed by the court.

Wilhelm, who is plaintiff in a suit for $3416.40 against the bank, alleging breach of contract for Wilhelm's services in 1933, featured his affidavit by detailing a telephone conversation through which he claims to have trapped Bascom and Forgy in the ruse of feigning Bascom's illness to evade the deposition.

Bascom "Embarrassed"

Bascom had started to give the deposition May 14, Wilhelm states, but after he became embarrassed by questioning, according to Wilhelm's affidavit, Forgy insisted on continuing the deposition proceedings until a later date, May 21 was finally agreed upon.

On May 20, says the affidavit, Wilhelm twice saw Bascom at his work, but on returning to his Los Angeles office, was informed over the telephone by Forgy's secretary that Bascom was ill and could not appear to give the deposition. The secretary, it was stated, read over the telephone a purported doctor's certificate, issued by Dr. Milo K. Tedstrom of Santa Ana, stating that Bascom was suffering from nervous disorders and fatigue and

Wages Bill Fight Rages

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(UP)—Southern Democrats today sought to revise the wage hour bill to provide regional wage differentials as the measure, with full administration backing, headed toward final action—probably passage—before nightfall.

With almost solid backing of southern Democratic forces, Rep. Robert Ramspeck, D., Ga., offered a substitute bill to replace the measure placed before the house by Chairman Mary T. Norton of the labor committee.

Starts Fight

His action exploded the second day's fight in the house over the measure to provide a wage floor for workers and a ceiling for their hours. Although it touched off heated debate, backers of wage hour legislation, holding their lines intact, predicted they would retain their original bill and win

REASONS CITED FOR RELIEF LOAD BOOST

SACRAMENTO, May 24.—(UP)—Failure of the federal housing program to stimulate residential building, continued influx of migratory workers and widely publicized advantages of California have combined to make an alarming increase in the state relief load, State Relief Administrator Harold Pomeroy said today.

Pomeroy pointed to the unprecedented doubling of the relief load in the San Joaquin Valley as an example of what faces California taxpayers.

Cites Figures

Figures cited by Pomeroy included:

There are 7500 to 10,000 persons entering California each month, many without adequate funds or gainful occupation.

Union Group To Hold Conclave

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 24.—(UP)—The executive board of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union today heard committee reports which were expected to have an important bearing on the question of whether the union should retain affiliation with the C. I. O. or give full allegiance to the A. F. of L.

It was reported that President David Dubinsky, known to desire a united labor front, may seek to renew attempts to effect a peace between the two groups as an alternative measure.

The ILGWU, with its membership of 260,000, is numerically one of labor's most powerful organizations.

One Killed, Two Hurt In Crash

PARK CITY, UTAH, May 24.—(UP) — Mrs. Dorothy Jacobsen about 35, Puente, Calif., was killed and two other persons were injured critically here yesterday when their automobile left U. S. Highway No. 40 and overturned several times.

Mrs. Jacobsen was enroute to the bedside of her dying mother in Bowman, N. D., when the accident occurred.

The injured were Mrs. Marian Martin, about 21, and Ross Rollins about 28, sister and brother of Mrs. Jacobsen. They were brought to a hospital here.

GUARD HURT IN BATTLE

SAN FRANCISCO, May 24.—(UP) — One of three convicts who attempted to escape yesterday from Alcatraz island—famed as America's "Devil's Island"—died today from a wound inflicted by a guard.

The prisoner, Thomas R. Limerick, serving a life sentence for bank robbery and kidnaping, was shot fatally through the head as he made a break for freedom with Rufus Franklin and James C. Lucas.

Just before their attempted break from the penitentiary on small Alcatraz Island in San Francisco Bay the three slugged Guard R. C. Cline with a hammer.

Condition Critical

Cline was taken to the Marine hospital where his condition was described as critical.

Franklin, serving a life term for murder, was wounded in the shoulder in the attempted break and Lucas, who gained notoriety through an attack with scissors on Al Capone, most notorious prisoner on Alcatraz, surrendered when he saw he was about to be shot down.

Let Contracts For Buildings

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 24.—(UP)—Contract for the first buildings to be erected by the California commission of the Golden Gate International Exposition on Treasure Island were under award by the department of public works today.

The project includes three structures—Mission Trails, Shasta-Cascade and Alameda-Contra Costa exhibit buildings—and was awarded to Guy F. Atkinson Co., San Francisco, for $124,142. Plumbing and electrical work will be awarded later, the department announced.

Duck Eats $800 Meal; Vanishes

BOSTON, May 24.—(UP)—The duck which plucked an $800 diamond from the hand that fed it will go free—with the diamond.

Police have abandoned their search for the diamond pecked from a ring on the hand of Mrs. Jeanne Lerman while she was feeding ducks at the public garden pool Sunday.

Park Commissioner William P. Long said the law banning molestation of the fowl would prevent X-raying of the flock. Besides, he said, the ducks are migratory and the culprit may have flown away.

MEXICAN OFFICIALS REPORT CEDILLO REVOLT NEAR END

SAN LUIS POTOSI, Mexico, May 24.—(UP)—Rebel followers of Gen. Saturnino Cedillo seemed to be dispersing today and government officials asserted that the ousted military commander's revolution had been broken.

The uprising apparently had degenerated into scattered guerrilla fighting on a minute scale. Bands of "Cedillistas" were operating in the mountains in northern San Luis Potosi state and in the Huasteca region, but government troops, aided by airplanes, were closing in on them.

Broadcasts

Cedillo was reported to have established headquarters at Montebello, northwest of Ciudad Maiz, from where he broadcast propaganda over his private radio station. The government said that he had about 300 men with him.

Reports that Cedillo's entire armed strength numbered 14,000 men, were considered ridiculous. While no official estimate was available, army men asserted that if he were that strong he would not evade a real battle, nor would he divide his men into groups.

9000 In Field

Private, reliable sources close to the government said that there were 20 army corporations, equivalent to 9,000 men, in San Luis Potosi state in addition to loyal armed Agrarians. It was recalled that last week Gen. Manuel Avila Camancho, minister of national defense asserted that "the government can have 500,000 men, including workers and Agrarians."

President Lazaro Cardenas was nearly in complete control of the last of the states which had been virtually autonomous at the time he became President on Nov. 30, 1934.

for assaults on Italian forces.

Arrest Rebel General

The revolt which was fomented two months ago, was climaxed by the arrest of a Nationalist general, Juan Yague, for a speech attacking foreign elements on the Nationalist side, the agency said

At the Balaguer bridgehead the Loyalists sent tanks along the main road from Artesa de Segre to Balaguer. Their batteries and planes shelled and bombed hill 361, one of the highest in the region at the extreme point of the bridgehead.

It was estimated that from 35,000 to 40,000 men, one battalion of machine gunners, 40 Russian tanks, 80 planes, comprising 60 pursuit planes and 20 bombers, and 15 military batteries hammered at the Nationalist line.

Turn Back Attack

Nationalists claimed that they had turned back the assault and were holding the left bank of the river.

As waves of Loyalist infantry advanced, accompanied by tanks, the Nationalists hurled gasoline bottles and hand grenades. When the Loyalists reached the Nationalist positions, they met such deadly machine gun and rifle fire that most of them fell before they passed the barbed wire, Nationalists claimed.

Those who got through were met with hand grenades and knives and many were killed inside the Nationalist trenches. There were numerous air battles.

Albanian Comes, Bearing Gifts—From His Queen

Maybe it's just an old Albanian custom, but in any event the picture above proves that it pays to get married on the same day as the king. This aged Albanian is bearing gifts on his donkey cart for the 14 other couples who were married at Tirana on the wedding day of King Zog and Countess Geraldine Apponyi. The queen gave each of the brides a bed, a mattress, blankets and pillows, part of which are shown piled on the cart.

Detective Frank E. Ryan testified Gardner told him he had intended to join the Dragons and thought he was doing a task for the organization when he helped Ross to bury Mrs. Schmidt's body in the Mojave desert last March 9.

Ryan said Gardner told him he did not know it was a body he and Ross put into Ross' rented car, but learned the truth later when, after digging the grave and placing the bundle in it, Ross slit the green oilcloth in which the body was wrapped and removed his mother-in-law's teeth.

Later Ross threw the teeth and the shovel with which he dug the grave into the desert, the detective said Gardner told him.

Received No Pay

Ryan said Gardner told him he had received an application blank from Ross for membership in the dragons, and he had intended to join. He said he received no pay for helping Ross but thought he was doing the dragons a favor, Ryan testified.

Gardner was arrested early today and booked on suspicion of murder after Ross had implicated him in the crime in his signed confession yesterday.

Mrs. Schmidt's body was found in a shallow desert grave last Saturday after a four-day search.

While the prosecutor refused to name six witnesses for whom subpenas already have been issued, it was reported those called to testify were:

Fishermen Named

Argyll Campbell, chairman of the Democratic state central committee and attorney for Monterey sardine interests; Brace Bevan and Joe Giamona, employes of the Monterey Sardine Industries, Inc.; Bruce Farrante, acting secretary, and D. Bradburn, auditor for the same corporation, and N. V. Crivelo, Monterey sardine packer.

Howard Philbrick, private investigator who has acted as the prosecutor's under man, indicated three more subpenas may be issued. It was reported one of these may be for Inspector George Moynahan, of the state motor vehicle department.

The proceedings wil be public for the first time in the state's history, permitted under a law passed by the 1937 legislature.

Assemblymen William Hornblower, San Francisco, and Charles W. Lyon, Los Angeles, legislators with whom Babcock said he had secured interviews, arrived here today for the hearing. Both said they had not been subpenaed.

house passage before adjournment tonight.

Ramspeck's substitute, containing the house labor committee's bill for universal minimum wage and maximum hour standards, would establish a five member board to determine where lower standards must be applied on the basis of local living costs and the value of a worker's services.

Makes Proposal

His proposal provides an initial minimum wage of not more than five cents an hour above the weighted average of pay in any labor classification. Upon order of the board, the wage may be increased not more than five cents an hour a year until a 40 cent minimum wage is reached.

The initial maximum hours would be 48, decreasing at discretion of the board to 40 hours.

The Norton bill before the house would provide an initial 25 cent hourly minimum wage, increasing in three annual steps to 40 cents and a 44 hour maximum work week, decreasing in two annual steps to 40 hours.

The house membership was on the floor in almost full force as Ramspeck explained that the substitute had been agreed to by majority of a house labor committee subcommittee before the full committee reported the Norton bill.

the Irish Free State.

Secret plans for the wedding had been arranged.

No Publicity

Without a word of publicity, Ickes boarded the French liner Normandie last Wednesday in New York. He arrived in Dublin only a few hours before the wedding ceremony. Even friends of the cabinet officer did not know until today exactly which boat Ickes sailed upon or the port from which he embarked.

Ickes and Miss Dahlman, friends said, have known each other for about seven years. The marriage is Ickes' second. His first wife, Anna Wilmarth Thompson was killed in a New Mexico auto crash about three years ago.

First Cabinet Wedding

The wedding is the first in the Roosevelt cabinet. The late Sen. Thomas Walsh of Montana, designated to be attorney general, died just before the 1933 inauguration enroute back to Washington after his honeymoon.

Ickes' associate in the New Deal's vast lending spending activities, Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins has recently been romantically linked in reports by friends with Mrs. Gardner Hale, New York stage star. There has been no confirmation of this report.

Begin Trial Of Young Slayer

NEW YORK, May 24.—(UP)—A jury of 12 men was ready today to try Donald Carroll, 16, who killed his 18-year-old sweetheart at her request because she was an expectant mother and they had neither the means to marry nor the courage to tell their parents.

Two alternate jurors were to be chosen before the first of the state's witnesses is called to begin the story of the bewildered high school boy and girl and their suicide agreement that was only half completed.

While 81 members of the panel were being questioned yesterday in the quest for the impartial 12, Donald sat with downcast eyes. Never once did he glance toward the first seat beyond the rail where his and the girl's parents sat side by side, staring at him compassionately.

DEATH REPORT EXAGGERATED

IONIA, Mich., May 24.—(UP)—James Jennings of Wells, Nev., said today that he never had felt better in his life.

Jennings, who left here 40 years ago and had not been heard from since, was declared legally dead last September so that his son, Lester, of Grand Rapids, could collect a $2500 estate left by his father's aunt 20 years ago. After a visit with his son, Jennings decided to let him keep the money.

Wilhelm thereupon called Bascom on the telephone, he states, and the following conversation assertedly followed:

"Hello, Mr. Basom," said Wilhelm.

"Yes?" came Bascom's voice, questioningly.

"How are you today, Mr. Bascom?"

"Fine, thank you."

"Well, that's strange," said Wilhelm, "I thought you were ill."

"No-o-o—Who is this talking?" said Bascom.

"This is Wilhelm talking. Fred Forgy just called me and read a doctor's certificate to me over the phone, saying you were mighty ill, but you don't sound sick to me."

"Well—I am sick—I'm all shot," Bascom assertedly replied.

Bascom, however, agreed to finish the deposition, states Wilhelm, but failed to appear the next day, and Forgy refused to produce him.

The affidavit states further that Forgy admitted Dr. Tedstrom's certificate was prepared in Forgy's office.

Presiding Judge James L. Allen issued the contempt citation, requiring Forgy and Bascom to appear at 2 p. m. Friday before Judge George K. Scovel.

Supervisor Riley Home

He had, also a severe case of homesickness as he came westward. "I was like a big, overgrown country boy in the city. I missed my wife and kids, and my friends. It made me almost sick at times," he said. "Orange county certainly loks good to me."

Riley praised the atmosphere of cooperation he found in all quarters of Washington. "Everybody did everything possible to help me" he said.

Business and economic conditions were the subject of widespread complaint in the East and Midwest. Business men, he said, blame uncertainty of labor conditions for the situation, but do not blame labor itself, considering that radical labor leaders and agitators are responsible.

Pair Battle In Divorce Suit

NEW YORK, May 24.—(UP)—Mrs. Schatz Adams Weicker denied in supreme court today that she traded trinkets or behaved in a manner unbecoming a married woman with Jimmy Melton, radio tenor.

But her husband, she said conducted himself familiarly with maids in their household and once brought a strange woman home for dinner and held her hands at the table.

Mrs. Weicker is suing her husband, Theodore, and he is suing her, in each case for separation.

Weickers counsel questioned her yesterday about platinum cuff links and a platinum wrist watch purchased at Cartier's and engraved with a special "J. M." monogram. She did not recall buying them.

F. D. R. PLANS TALK

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(UP)—President Roosevelt will speak for 15 minutes over a national radio network Friday at 2 p. m. when he visits the Arthurdale subsistence homestead project in West Virginia, the White House said today.

H. B. Mayor Raps West Oil Stand

lock horns with him over the request for the resolution.

Hurls Charge

West said it would be entirely out of place for the board to do anything but favor the federal move to take the oil. The Standard already has taken an estimated $30,000,000 of the oil, he said.

"You have some whipstock oil wells yourself, I believe," he said to McCallen, who affirmed the statement.

"Of course you're taking oil illegally," said West. McCallen made denial and then both talked at once. McCallen remarked that if it weren't for the whipstock operators the Standard Oil company would have taken the entire pool.

West Answered

After further argument with West, Mayor McCallen said that "if this is the kind of representation the people are getting, all right. Some time you may come to Huntington Beach and want something. We'll consider it." He said he supposed that if West had a little sweet potato farm and the federal government took it, West would like that.

McCallen said he didn't see how any honorable person can be in favor of the Nye resolution, to seize the pool. West asked if the remark was aimed at him, and McCallen said not particularly.

A little later, West said he didn't see how any honest or honorable person would be a party to the present state situation respecting the Huntington Beach pool, and accused Attorney General Webb of "compounding felonies" in that connection.

Riley Enters In

Supervisor Harry Riley interjected an objection to the proposition that Supervisor West was speaking for the board.

Supervisor John Mitchell, always anxious to know how other counties look at a question, asked what Los Angeles county was doing about this matter. McCallen went to a telephone and learned that Chairman Jessup, of the Los Angeles board, is flying east tonight to protest the federal move.

That was enough for Mitchell. He moved adoption of a resolution making similar protest. Supervisor Steele Finley seconded it. West objected strenuously that the board didn't know what it was voting on, and declared that since the record of the county and state was to "support Standard Oil battles all along the line," he would oppose the move to "clinch Standard's stranglehold on the Huntington Beach field." On roll call, the resolution passed, 4 to 1.

"This is a strange action from a board, some of whose members refused to fight Orange county's battle in this case, and now are supporting Standard Oil's battle."

"If we are going into that," grinned Chairman Willard Smith, "I think that some other actions of board members have been strange."

"Yes," said West, having the last word, "before and since."

German Press Attacks Czechs

side Czechoslovakia.

The sharp tone of the press was interpreted in well informed quarters as indicating that Germany is determined to protect her nationals by all means if need be, and that relief can be lasting only if no serious incident occurs during the Czech municipal election.

Otto Krieck wrote in the Nachi Ausgabe:

Hurl Threat

Frontier violations cannot be made good by a simple diplomatic apology. We know that frontier violations took place at important strategic points. The whole thing was based on a concerted military plan.

"The Czechoslovak government may do within its own territory what it likes but if German territory should be affected by its measures and if a single person in the Greater Reich should be imperiled by Czechoslovak military moves, there will be no restraint on the German side."

Rap Chamberlain

Der Angriff, under a headline reading, "Mr. Chamberlain (British foreign secretary) Completely Misled World Opinion," said:

"We are astonished to hear from Mr. Chamberlain that the nervous, panic-stricken cabinets in London, Paris and Prague are supposed to have scored a great victory for world peace.

"The gentlemen in Paris and London played a dangerous game. Merely in order to remain in the foreground of events, they resorted to methods of intrigue which would have led to the gravest consequences had not Germany retained its poise in the face of a wanton game.

Methods Attacked

"The methods which the Paris and London cabinet applied in order to pass themselves off as saviors of world peace were both pitiful and dangerous.

"The blood of the two men in Eger (two German Sudetens killed by Czech border sentries) accuses not only the men in Prague but also the cabinet chiefs in Paris and London."

FELONY CHARGE QUASHED

Upon motion of Deputy District Atty. Warren Schutz, a felony morals charge against Steve Valencia, Santa Ana, was dismissed by Judge Kenneth Morrison today "in furtherance of justice." Valencia agreed to marry the girl, victim of the alleged offense. A baby, paternity of which Valencia was charged, was born dead, officials said.

Guard Hurt In Alcatraz Battle

wounded Franklin was not made public.

Pair Missing

The attempted escape was the first at Alcatraz, known as "The Rock", since Ralph Roe and Ted Cole dived into the water of San Francisco bay last December. They still are missing.

So far as has been established, no prisoner ever has made a successful break from Alcatraz. Most authorities believe that Roe and Cole were swept out to sea when they plunged into the bay.

Cline and the three convicts were in the woodwork shop of the factory yesterday. Cline carried no gun because guards never are armed inside a prison where convicts might obtain their weapons.

The men apparently had been planning their attack for several days. Without warning, they leaped upon Cline and struck him with a hammer. He was knocked unconscious.

Plans Upset

The convicts ran to a window and pulled themselves to the top of the factory building. There, Warden James Johnston believed, the men hoped to find an armed guard from whom they could wrest a weapon.

But the unidentified guard upset the criminals' plans. He opened fire. Franklin was hit in the shoulder. Limerick had carried a piece of iron with him from the work shop. He threw that at the guard, but the guard jumped out of the way and shot Limerick.

Lucas, the man who stabbed Al Capone in June 1936 at the prison, fled to cover. He surrendered to the guard and was returned to his cell.

Johnston refused to discuss disciplinary action against the men.

Reveal Jump In Relief Cost

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(UP)—Preliminary estimates indicated today that six months of depression and increasing unemployment sent the cost of all public relief during April to approximately $250,000,000—the highest in the history of the Works Progress Administration.

Prospects for the immediate future indicate that the rise will continue unchecked until late summer.

Principal factor in the sharp upward swing in costs since September, 1937, was the addition of more than 500,000 workers to WPA rolls during that period. WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins has predicted a similar increase in the immediate future which may send the rolls to or above the 3,000,000 mark.

CIO Riot Trial Is Adjourned

NEVADA CITY, Cal., May 24.—(UP)—Trial of five members of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers union, CIO affiliate, on charges of rioting at the Murchie mine last January, adjourned today until Wednesday to permit calling of a special venire to complete the jury.

The original panel of 190 was exhausted late yesterday with eleven jurors tentatively selected. Defense attorneys had two peremptory challenges left out of the 36 at the start of jury selection while the prosecution retained 19.

The new panel will be called by Harold W. Robinson, retired business man, named as elisor after Judge Reglan Tuttle disqualified Coroner L. R. Jefford to act in place of Sheriff C. J. Tobiassen. Both Jefford and Tobiassen were disqualified on motion of defense attorneys.

ASSAULT CHARGE DISMISSED

Leonard Jones, charged with simple assault in a complaint signed by his wife some weeks ago, will not face the charge. Justice Kenneth Morrison dismissed the case today after reports revealed the Joneses were divorced several weeks ago.

The United States navy is drawing up plans for a dirigible that will carry five or six small light-bombing planes.

Japanese Liner, Freighter Crash

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—The Japanese silk liner Arimasan Maru was moored in the outer harbor today with a 30 foot gash in her hull after a collision in a foggy sea with the coastwise freighter Walter A. Luckenbach.

The motorship was outbound for Japan carying a bi-motored Douglas airplane, scrap iron, cotton and oil when she was rammed two miles off the harbor breakwater. Her starboard side was gashed from the bulwarks to below the waterline. The No. 5 hold was flooded, settling the vessel two feet. Damage was estimated at $100,000.

Wallowing helplessly, the Arimasan Maru was taken in tow by tugs and coast guard cutters. The Luckenbacher suffered only bent prow plates. No one was injured.

PROTESTS SENT TO WASHINGTON

Taking steps to resist passage of the proposed act giving the Federal government title to tidal and submerged oil land off the coast of California, members of the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce, at a meeting last night adopted a resolution protesting passage of the measure and will send copies of the resolution to Senator Hiram Johnson and Senator William G. McAdoo and California's 20 representatives in Congress.

Under the act pending before the House, the Federal government would expropriate some $2,000,000,000 worth of tidal and submerged lands which are rich in petroleum deposits.

Cites Revenue Slash

In the resolution, members of the chamber declared that such seizure would deprive the state of California and the city of Huntington Beach of its soverign rights and privileges and that by such high-handed methods the city's revenue would be slashed and the tax burden increased on every property owner.

It was also brought out that the city of Huntington Beach will oppose the proposed measure vigorously, doing all in its power and using every means possible to bring pressure on proper authorities in Washington to abandon the bill.

S. A. VALLEY HOSPITAL NURSES HOLD FIRST MEETING OF GROUP

With a talk by Dr. G. Emmett Raitt, chairman of the board of directors of Santa Ana Valley hospital, on "Nursing Ethics," as a feature, the Santa Ana Valley Hospital Nurses' association, newly organized, last night held its first official program.

The name of the organization was selected during the business hour and the constitution approved. A month ago, at the first meeting, Miss Mary Greer and Miss Helen Ness, who were in charge last night, were elected president and secretary, respectively.

Reviews History

Dr. Raitt told the nurses that they owe the public a responsibility just as the medical profession does and should conduct themselves accordingly, following the Golden Rule in their practice.

"Your profession is relatively young, the first nursing school being organized by Marie Zakrzewska but 65 years ago," Dr. Raitt said. "And that is a short time in which to establish a set of rules for ethics of a profession. Service to the public should be paramount, reward or financial gain, subordinate.

Ethics Are Cited

"As nurses you are in possession of certain confidential information regarding persons and cases and such information should be taken care of as you would have someone else take care of it were it regarding you or your loved ones," he continued. "The chief principle for your code of ethics should be formed upon the Golden Rule."

Refreshments were served during the social hour. The meeting was held at the hospital. Next meeting will be on June 27.

ILLNESS TRACED IN TOOTH RINGS

CHICAGO. — (UP) — Science has discovered a new kind of "teeth ing ring" that is much different from the one the baby has now.

As infants grow up, two Illinois dentists have found, each tooth forms a series of rings like those observed in cut sections of trees. These tooth rings are not formed annually, like those in trees, but in a few days, and they are discernible only with a microscope.

The rings do not appear regularly, declare the dentists. Dr. Isaac Schour of the University of Illinois and Dr. Rudolph Kornfeld of Loyola University, but only when normal health has been disturbed by illness or fever. An exceptionally healthy child might have no rings in his teeth, while a child troubled frequently by disease would have many.

Thus, although of little practical medical or dental value, the tooth rings are significant in that they reflect the physical history of a child. "Just as the growth rings in the tree record environmental variations in weather and condition of the soil," Dr. Schour said, "so human dental tissues constitute a permanent and accurate record of variations in health and disease." Rings can be observed in the teeth, in fact, long after death.

After working on their discovery for two years and experimenting with animals—whose teeth also possess rings of much the same type—the professors find they still have much to learn. Mainly, they hope to find what disease causes which type of ring, and some day to be able to describe the whole story of a child's growth from the dentine layers in his teeth.

Shower Is Given In Tustin Home

TUSTIN, May 24.—Complimenting Miss Ruth Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lee, of McFadden street, who is to be married in June to Leroy Sears, of Irvine ranch, was a shower given recently by Mrs. Annetta Harper and Mrs. Harriett Parnell at the home of Mrs. Hubert Howell.

Quantities of rose and blue larkspur decorated the rooms, with small clusters of the same flowers at the refreshment table where a dainty dessert course was served. Guests made a scrap book of the life of the bride and groom-to-be, with prizes going to the Misses Oma Howell, Alma Harper and Loraine Bruce.

Those present were the Mesdames Lucille Tidball, Lorene Hanson, Miriam Hanson, Virginia Shire, Vera Case and the Misses Barbara Traeger, Melba Lee, Aletha Sears, Ruby Lamsdell, Wanda Pennington, Nadine Pennington, Bobbie Wakeham, Vivian Harper, Alma Harper, Ama Howell, Lorraine Bruce, Wilella Green, Lois Terry, Willie Potter and Elizabeth Rouse.

ASK RETENTION OF INSTRUCTOR

FULLERTON, May 24.—A petition asking Fullerton school trustees to reconsider their action in failing to renew the contract of Dr. J. A. Williams, instructor in psychology and philosophy at Fullerton Junior college, will be presented to the trustees tonight.

The petition was signed by a majority of the students, according to reports. When Dr. Louis Plummer, college administrator, failed to present the contract of Dr. Williams at a meeting two weeks ago, two members of the board, President Harold Hale and Mrs. Sidney L. Chapman, protested.

Action of the administrator was upheld by the other members of the board, Claude Ridgeway, L. B. Stewart and John Schiller.

H. B. GROUP TO MEET

JAPANESE REPORT NEW VICTORY AFTER FIERCE LANFENG BATTLE

SHANGHAI, May 24.—(UP)—Japanese reports said today that Lanfeng, "Gateway to the western Lunghhai railroad," had fallen after a four day battle more bloody than that at Suchow.

The Japanese reported they were advancing westward along the railroad. Chinese military authorities admitted that the Japanese forces from the city of Hopei and from Anhwei Province and Japanese warships on the Yangtse were moving within striking distance of Hankow.

The Japanese said they were converging on Kaifeng, near the junction of the Lunghai line and the Peiping - Hankow railroad. Scores of planes were demolishing the Chinese line of supply and munition dumps at Kaifeng and Chengchow, the junction point, the Japanese reported.

REPORT CHINESE TROOPS ESCAPE

PEIPING, May 24.—(UP)—Most of the Chinese troops in the Suchow area have escaped to the west, despite reports to the contrary, foreign and Japanese correspondents observed on a flight over Central China today.

The flight, made in a 21-passenger Douglas plane provided by Japanese military authorities, revealed that great damage had been done to villages and towns north and south of the Lunghai railway line.

Japanese motorized units and cavalry were concentrated around Shuangkow. Japanese supply columns were rushing forward to replenish vanguard detachments, but no Chinese soldiers or civilians were visible in the area.

...AND SO EASY

to broil the smokeless way, with natural gas

★ Juicy, tender steaks, as well as fruits, vegetables and other good foods of many kinds can now be broiled without smoke, the modern gas way. For, closed or open, the new broilers are smokeless.

This cleanliness, exclusive with gas and the new ranges, is due to several points of difference that distinguish gas cookery from other methods. A special grid removes surplus greases. These are deposited in a covered well, outside of the intense heat zone. And any spattering, which might cause smoke, is completely consumed in the cleansing flame. That's why smokeless broiling requires flame heat. There is no cleaner cookery than modern gas cookery. See the new ranges at dealers' or gas company.

Cantando Club To Give Program In S. A. Tonight

Cantando club patrons are awaiting with much interest tonight's program in the high school auditorium, when this men's singing organization will bring to a close the current season of club concerts.

Not only have the men prepared a fine song program under direction of Benjamin Edwards, with several special numbers including a double quartet with a solo part for Sally Lee Scales, soprano, but they will introduce a guest artist of special prominence. This will be Thomas Mancini, concert violinist, for whose two groups, Miss Ruth Armstrong, Cantando accompanist, will be at the piano.

The program will begin promptly at 8:15 o'clock.

S.A. MERCHANTS MAY JOIN CLUB

Possibility of the formation of the second chapter of the National Breakfast club organization in Santa Ana was expressed this morning when more than a dozen business men of Santa Ana assembled at Daniger's cafe to discuss methods of forming an active association of Santa Ana independent merchants.

Meeting under the chairmanship of William L. Newman, secretary-manager of the National Breakfast Club of Glendale, a round-table discussion revealed that a majority of the merchants favored the formation of the club with members of the Home Owned Business Men's association as a nucleus.

Reciprocity of Trade

"The formation of a National Breakfast club, if it is successful, will ultimately absorb the present association of independent merchants," Newman said.

"The club will have as its purpose the reciprocity of trade with members of the organization and the building of better business for the entire community," Newman stated.

Following a general discussion, the meeting adjourned until 7:30 a. m. next Tuesday when the group will again meet at Daniger's.

Some Shootin'! —Officer Modest

Brothers and sisters, that's some shootin'! Lieutenant B. A. Hershey of Santa Ana police took a "pot shot" at a jackrabbit 107 yards away with his six-shooter in the diming light of dusk yesterday and scored a clean hit. Has absolute proof of it, too. And measured the distance with a tape measure. But here's his comment: "I couldn't do such a thing again in a life-time with such a weapon even if it were broad daylight."

It si reported that there are twice as many automobile drivers in the United States as there are automobiles.

Growers Select Group to Work On Lug-Box Plan

Appointment of two members on a committee to frame legislation that will assist the growers of Southern California in reducing their costs on lug boxes and crates was the first step taken by a group of representative growers meeting yesterday at the Los Angeles County Farm Bureau offices.

Members of the committee announced yesterday were J. J. Deuel, head of the legislative committee of the California Farm Bureau Federation, and C. Nakamura, secretary of the Southern California Farm Federation, an organization of Japanese growers. The third member of the committee will be a grower from Riverside county, A. A. Fisher, Orange county representative at the parley, said.

Hope to Save $70,000

If plans of the group materialize, Orange county vegetable growers will save approximately $70,000 a year in the purchase of lug boxes and crates. At present growers are required to pay for boxes and crates at prices ranging from eight cents to 11 cents and in many instances re-purchase their original boxes as many as eight or ten times.

Yesterday's meeting was to work out a system whereby growers will be credited with boxes and crates sent to the Los Angeles markets. Formation of a lug box exchange similar to the exchange now in operation for bottles was discussed at the meeting.

CONCERTS IN PARK RESUME TOMORROW

The resumption of the public concerts in Birch Park, discontinued during unsettled weather, is announced for tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. Dale Porter will again occupy the podium, conducting the Federal Music Project band unit of thirty musicians for the opening of the summer open-air series.

Leon Eckles, project supervisor, said today that programs of a high musical standard and with popular appeal would again be offered by the band.

Tomorrow's concert has for its opening number the march, "Cinca," by McFall. "In the Sudan," a lively number in the oriental mood, and "Mexican Kisses," another number in the lighter vein, are to proceed the familiar overture to Rossini's "Barber of Seville."

Following a brief intermission, the concert will continue with Lacombe's suite, "La Feria," composed in three parts.

RESIGNATIONS ARE ACCEPTED

Two new teachers were hired for Santa Ana schools by the board of education last evening, resignations of three teachers were accepted, and transfers of three other teachers within the school system, for replacements, as recommended by Superintendent Frank Henderson, were approved.

Blair White, graduate of Fresno State college, with additional study at U. S. C. and three years of teaching experience in Porterville, was elected to the faculty of Lathrop junior high school, replacing Maxson Weide, teacher of shop, who resigned.

Miss Sexton Elected

Miss Louis Sexton, graduate of Santa Ana high school in 1934 and Santa Ana junior college in 1936, a member of this year's graduating class at U. S. C., was elected to a vacancy in the elementary system.

Resignations of Dr. John Brown Mason, of Junior college, who has accepted a post in Fresno State college; of Mrs. Vera Hughes, of Franklin school; and Miss Helen Ross, were accepted. Miss Ross, here from Ketchikan, Alaska, on exchange with Miss Boyd Joplin, of Santa Ana, resigned to accept a teaching position in La Habra at a $300 increase in salary. She was unable to get extension of her leave from Ketchikan, so resigned from that school also. Miss Joplin, meanwhile, has been extended another year's leave in Ketchikan.

Objects To Man

The board last night approved recommendations by Superintendent Henderson to transfer John Dickey from the elementary schools to Willard junior high, to replace Walton Bean, instructor of social science, who resigned; also to transfer Miss Ruth Fitz from Jefferson school to Willard punior high, to replace Miss Bonnie Kiser, resigned; and to transfer Audrey Glines, principal of Jefferson school, to Lathrop junior high, to replace Mrs. Iva M. Webber as vice-principal, Mrs. Webber having resigned.

Dr. Margarete Baker, of the board, made some objection to employment of a man as vice-principal. Inasmuch as approximately half of the students are girls, there should be a woman vice-principal, available as advisor to the girls, she stated. It was pointed out that provision is made otherwise for a girls' advisor, but Dr. Baker contended that the teacher who did the work should receive recognition for it, through her title.

Principal H. G. Nelson, of Lathrop, observed that while half of the students are girls, it is also true that three-fourths of the teachers are women, and he would like to get more men on the faculty.

Under Advisement

To replace Principal Glines at Jefferson, Henderson presented the proposal that Miss Isabel Lindsay, principal at Hoover school, be relieved of teaching duties and made principal of both Hoover and Jefferson schools. Lincoln and Logan schools have one principal, and Jefferson and Wilson once operated under one principal. The board took the matter under consideration.

Letters were received by the board last night from Principal Lynn Crawford and Vice-Principal Robert Farrar, of high school, expressing apreciation for being re-elected to their positions.

A letter from 36 women in the adult education sewing classes also expressed appreciation for the "invaluable training" they have received in the classes.

The Cantando club also wrote that it is well satisfied with the concessions granted by the board in reducing rental for use of the high school auditorium for club concerts.

After adjourning, the board went into an unofficial session to work on the school budget for next year.

County First Aid Grants Arrive

CORNELL MOLDS PRETTY CO-EDS

ITHACA, N. Y. (UP)—Any girl can be good looking "if she follows the rules," believes Mrs. Gladys Butt, instructor in the College of Home Economics, Cornell University.

"The rules" are laid down in a new course for freshmen girls at the university, which teaches them how to improve their looks by proper grooming.

Among the facilities of the course is a beauty shop where the students learn to give each other shampoos, facials, manicures, hair dressings and other beauty aids. They also learn how to make simple cosmetics which gives the girls an opportunity to care for their appearance without too much expense.

Graceful postures while sitting, standing and walking are taught by instructors in the physical education department. Faults in posture are no only pointed out but, if possible, are corrected.

Each girl in the course has an opportunity to study clothing and to decide the lines, colors and textures which suit her best. Dressmaking also is taught.

Not only do the girls learn to make their clothes, but learn to take care of them as well. They are taught to remove spots and stains, to press, to launder sweaters and silks, and to renovate hats.

Clifton Weethee Rites Conducted

Mesa Couple At Home to Friends

COSTA MESA, May 24.—Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Castle jr. (Geneva Thompson) are at home to their friends in Costa Mesa following their recent marriage in Riverside. The marriage service was read by the Rev. O. O. Elmquest.

As her wedding costume, the bride wore a dust rose ensemble with luggage tan accessories. She was attended by Mrs. O. O. Odette, of Newport Beach, in printed silk with luggage tan accessories. Both wore corsage bouquets of gardenias. O. O. Odette served Mr. Castle as best man.

The bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Thompson, of Oklahoma City, Okla., graduated from the schools of that city. She is employed at the E. I. Moore confectionery, Newport Beach. Her husband, a city employe, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Castle, of 2095 Santa Ana avenue, Mosta Mesa. He is a graduate of the Los Angeles schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Castle have deferred their honeymoon until fall.

List Numbers For Newport Concert

NEWPORT BEACH, May 24.—Numbers have been announced for Miss Naomi Myrick, of New York and Los Angeles, who will be guest soloist at the annual spring concert of the Siegfried Choristers Friday evening at 8 o'clock at Christ Church By the Sea.

Her numbers will open with an arrangement of Handle's "Largo" and Handel's "Serse," to be followed by Brindisi (Lucrezia Borgia) Donazetti; "The Arrow and the Song," Balfe; "Love Went a Riding," Bridge; "I Hear You Calling Me," Marshall; and "Aspiration," Cox.

Presented by her accompanist and piano soloist will be "Impromptu," Shubert; "Reflex Dans 'L eau," De Bussy. Selections by the chorus of which Mrs. Harriett Siegfried Underwood, of Balboa Island, is founder-director, will be "Spring Song," "A Parting Kiss," Tinsutti; "The Sandman," De Vorshals; "Oh Hush Thee My Baby," Sir Arthur Sullivan, and "The Song of the Viking," Faning.

LATE NEWS OF ORANGE AND VICINITY

PARTY HELD BY CLUB MEMBERS

ORANGE, May 24.—Attended by 125 persons, the benefit card party given last night at the Orange Woman's clubhouse by members of the Business and Professional Women's club was a most successful event. Funds from the affair will enable the club to send the 14 members of the club chorus to the state convention at Santa Barbara May 28.

Members of the chorus directed by Marie Kadison Daugherty are to sing at the session of the state conclave Saturday night. Last night they sang three numbers, "Rain," "The Golden Key" and "Estralita." Mrs. Melba Chandler is president.

Miss Helen Gillogly served as general chairman for the party. A number of prizes were awarded at the close of the card games. Refreshments were served at the card tables. Prize winners were Rex Parks, Grace Meyer, H. S. Huff, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Watson, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Fletcher, Mrs. J. Edward Bertman, Mrs. C. C. Bonebrake, Mrs. Fred Lentz, Mrs. Margaret Harpet, Ruth Oakes, J. R. Campbell, O. K. Anderson, K. R. Chandler, Miss Eldene Watson, Mrs. Rex Shannon, R. Hannum, Charles Wagner, Edward Hind and A. D. Burkett.

Arrange Funeral Of Mrs. Atkinson

ORANGE, May 24.—Funeral services for Mrs. Mary A. Atkinson, 68, who passed away yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. N. I. Mackel, 220 East Palyra avenue, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Gillogly Funeral chapel.

Mrs. Atkinson, who was born in Bridgeton, N. J., had lived in Orange for 16 years. She had been seriously ill for five weeks.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Mackel and Mrs. F. L. Hafer of Santa Ana; four grandchildren, and one stepson, Walter Atkinson of Washington, D. C.

The Rev. Arthur T. Hobson, pastor of the First Methodist church, will officiate and interment will be made in Fairhaven cemetery.

ORANGE PERSONALS

ORANGE, May 24.—David Batchelor, South Olive street, who has been seriously ill, is improving in health.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meier have returned from Lake Elsinore, where they went to bring home the latter's mother, Mrs. Sabina West, and Mrs. Melle Chapman, who have been at the lake for some time. Mrs. West and Mrs. Chapman are now at the Meier cottage at Laguna Beach where they will remain for the summer. Mr. and Mrs. Meier will leave the latter part of June on an European trip.

Initiation of new members will be a part of the business to be conducted by members of Scepter chapter of the O. E. S. Thursday evening at the Masonic hall.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Perry, East Collins avenue, have returned from a trip to Murray, Neb., where they visited with the former's mother, Mrs. Catherine Perry, who is 91 years of age. The Orange residents spent Mother's day with Mr. Perry's mother, 48 relatives sharing the occasion. After visiting in Nebraska the couple spent some time in Scranton, Pa., visiting many places of interest, including a number of national parks on their return to the Pacific coast.

OLIVE

OLIVE, May 24.—Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Johnson of San Jose, are visiting their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lemke. Mr. and Mrs. Lemke and son Warren and Mr. and Mrs. Johnson motored to Boulder dam recently.

Mr. and Mrs. August Lemke, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lemke motored to Escondido Sunday to spend the day with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Mares, Bernhard, Arthur and Arnold Kreidt of Los Angeles spent Sunday at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. E. H. Kreidt.

CLUB SECTION TO INSTALL NEW OFFICERS ON JUNE 13

ORANGE, May 23.—Plans to install officers were made yesterday at a luncheon meeting of the First Toastmasters' section of the Orange Woman's club meeting, with Mrs. H. F. Taylor presiding. The installation will be held in the home of Mrs. C. C. Bonebrake, 1205 West Palmyra avenue, June 13.

The installing officer will be Miss Flo Scarritt, honorary toastmaster and the first to serve in this capacity. The occasion also will mark the 10th anniversary of the organization of the section and past presidents are to be honor guests.

New officers are Mrs. C. O. Powell, president; Mrs. Ethel Niquette, vice president; Mrs. E. P. Ehlen, secretary and Mrs. G. L. Niles, treasurer. Yesterday Mrs. W. H. Johnson presented each of the outgoing officers with a beautiful corsage. These gifts went to Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. E. H. Smith, Mrs. Vernon Shippee and Mrs. M. L. Pearson. The corsages were made by Mrs. Walter F. Kogler.

Responses were made from the topic, "Ideal Vacations.". The program for the afternoon consisted of a debate on the question "Is a Summer Vacation a Rest?" Mrs. Kogler took the affirmative side and Mrs. W. C. Pixley the negative. At the final meeting of the year roll call responses will be made from the subject, "The Funniest Story I Know."

Present were Mesdames G. L. Niles, Ethel Niquette, M. L. Pearson, W. C. Pixley, C. O. Powell, C. F. Rowell, Vernon Shippee, B. D. Stanley, H. F. Taylor, David G. Wettlin, E. H. Smith, A. Haven Smith, C. C. Bonebrake, A. D. Burkett, Mabel Faulkner, E. F. Gould, A. H. Halleck, F. E. Hallman, W. H. Johnson, W. F. Kogler, W. H. Lowry and Miss Scarritt.

MUSIC PUPILS GIVE RECITAL

ORANGE, May 25.—Pupils of Mrs. Joy Elder gave a recital last evening in the third floor recital room of Orange Union High school. The program consisted of accordion and piano music, opening with a march, given by an accordion band.

Piano duets were offered by Ardene and Leroy McBain; Beatrice Alexander and Joy Elder; Dorothy Hutchison and Vivian Hughes. Piano solos were played by Joan Wright, Carolina Luna, Roberta Conner, Cornelia Dunbar, and Elizabeth Dunbar.

Accordion solos were played by June Kickey, Glennadean Sutliff, Doris Faulkner, Maxine Brown, Wilbur Kamrath, Carolyn Hager and Dorothy Brush. Novelty numbers were offered by a sextette composed of June Kickey, Earle Rowland, Glennadean Sutliff, Maxine Brown, Wilbur Kamrath and Doris Faulkner.

An accordion quintet played "Evening Shadows." Members were Dorothy Brush, Maxine Brown, Earle Rowland, Wilbur Kamrath and Joy Elder. "Dancing Doll" was played by a trio composed of Carolyn Hager, Doris Faulkner and Joy Elder. The recital closed with the quartet from "Rigoletto" by Verdi, played by the accordion band.

Mrs. Wirtz Honor Guest at Party

ORANGE, May 24.—Mrs. Arthur Wirtz (Mary Louise Jorn) was happily surprised recently when friends held a layette shower at the home of Mrs. Wilbert Buescher. Decorations centered around a pink and blue color scheme.

In an amusing guessing game Mrs. Hugo Lemke won first, with Mrs. Herman Harms receiving consolation. Court whist was played, with prizes going to Mrs. Martin Danner and Mrs. Paul Greiser. Mrs. A. G. Webbeking played several piano selections.

Refreshments were served from one long table decorated with flowers and a large taper. Ice cream molds centered with a pink stork and iced cakes were served.

Honoring Mrs. Wirtz were Mesdames Oscar Klammer, Martin Danner, E. T. Pingel, Victor Webbeking, Henry Hinrichs, Eddie Schnackenber, Andrew Edwards, Paul Greiser, Walter Kletke, A. G. Webbeking, Hugo Lemke, Loyd Pryer, Harvey Burrows, Harold Sprecher, Herman Marms, the honor guest, Mrs. Wirtz and the hostess, Mrs. Buescher.

AUTO LICENSES GOOD 4 YEARS

Operator's licenses now being used are good for four years, Capt. H. C. Meehan, head of the California highway patrol office for Orange county, said today in presenting answers to a series of questions submitted by interested motorists.

Duplicates of such licenses may be secured if the originals are lost or destroyed accidentally, Captain Meehan said. The licenses may be secured at the state department of motor vehicles.

Copy of Original

"I noticed my new operator's license does not have a place for me to sign it," one motorist said. "I once was told that the law required that I sign the operator's license or that it would not be valid. How about it?

"This previously was true," Captain Meehan stated. "Under the new forms issued, you are given a copy of your original application which contains a facsimile of your signature."

Other questions with their answers are as follows:

What is the speed limit in any public park? The prima facie speed limit is 15 miles per hour upon any portion of a highway in any public park which passes through any public playground or past any buildings or other place of public assemblage. Do drivers of public owned vehicles have to obey traffic laws the same as the rest of us? Indeed they do. This includes emergency vehicles, as well. No one has any right to operate any vehicle upon the highways without due regard for the safety of all others. Under no circumstances are they absolved from blame when they arbitrarily exercise privileges extended to emergency vehicles.

HOLD EVERYTHING!

"You're too heavy for this fool thing, Emma—I warned you before we started!"

3 Positions In Civil Service List

Frank Cannon, secretary of the U. S. Civil service board in Santa Ana announced today, that the Civil service commission has declared open competitive examinations for three positions.

The closing date for receipt of the applications from states east of Colorado is June 20, and from Colorado and states westward June 23, the secretary said today.

The three positions are:

Veterinarian (poultry pathology), with a salary from $2,600 to $4,600 a year, in the Bureau of Animal Industry, department of agriculture, Geneticist, (poultry) various grades, with a salary of $2,600 to $4,600 a year, Bureau of Animal Industry department of agriculture; and Principal poultry husbandman, $5,600 a year, Bureau of Animal Industry, department of agriculture.

Further information may be obtained from Cannon.

TALBERT

TALBERT, May 24.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Perston have returned from a trip to Kingman, Ariz., as guests of their son, Delbert Preston, and family, visiting Boulder Dam, enroute. Mrs. Alice Wrenn, of Oakland, and Mrs. Preston are to go to Kingman soon for two days. Mr. and Mrs. Allen Osmun, of Tustin, were at the Preston home in their absence.

Mrs. Otto Folkert is spending several days in Los Angeles as the guest of her daughter, Miss Jennie Folkert.

Hollis Fitz, principal of Fountain Valley school, has returned to his classes following a serious illness, the result of an infected finger.

Mrs. Muriel Hylton, who for the past month has been confined at her home suffering a throat infection, is reported as considerably improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Betschart entertained as a recent guest a friend, Mr. Gullett, of Sawtelle.

REPORT SHOWS GASOLINE GAIN

A substantial increase in gasoline sales during April was reported today by the State Board of equalization in Sacramento.

The gasoline tax revenue for last month amounted to $4,632,373.50, an increse of $464,024.94, of 10.02 per cent over the sme month of 1937. The tax was assessed against the distribution of 154,412,450 gallons of gasoline.

The April sales were the highest reported by the board since August, 1937.

Oil companies reporting sales for more than 300,000 gallons in April were listed by the board, with the explanation that resale of gasoline previously taxed and exempt sales to the federal government or in interstate or foreign commerce accounted for differences between total sales and taxable sales.

L. A. Convention To Draw 100,000

Los Angeles will take on a decidedly international aspect with the invasion of the 100,000 Shriners and their families for the 1938 convention starting June 7, a checkup of delegations due and entertainments planned, made by Director General Robert A. Heffner, revealed this week.

With 100 uniformed bands, patrols, drum corps, drill teams, and chanters coming to add glory to the representation of the various temples from the four corners of the North American continent and Hawaii, a profusion of colors of dazzling hues will result.

BIRTHDAY OBSERVED

BUENA PARK, May 24.—Otto Austin was honored with a surprise birthday dinner at his home recently. Quantities of beautiful flowers, numerous gifts and supper were brought by the guests.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. Claude Allen and daughters, Ruth and Claudine, Mrs. Margaret Strain, Dorothy, Coy and Thelma Austin of Buena Park and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Strain of Anaheim.

STATE LEADS IN TRUCK ACREAGE

SACRAMENTO, May 24.—California's dominance in commercial truck crop production among the states is shown in detail by the annual commercial truck crop summary issued by the federal-state crop reporting service at the state department of agriculture.

In 1937 total truck crop acreage in California was 582,900 from which vegetables valued at $93,990,000 were harvested, the report, prepared by truck crops statistician, Carl Schiller, shows. In second place is Florida with a total acreage of 155,400 in 1937 which yielded vegetables valued at $25,717,000. Other states producing commercial truck crops ranked as follows, on the basis of total values, in 1937: New York, third; Texas, fourth; New Jersey, fifth.

Covers Wide Variety

On the basis of acreage, the first five commercial truck crop producing states in 1937 were California, first; Texas, second; Indiana, third; Wisconsin, fourth; Maryland, fifth.

Commodities included in the county-by-county report of the crop reporting service include artichokes, asparagus, snap beans, cabbage, cantaloupes, carrots, cauliflower, celery, cucumbers, garlic, lettuce, onions, peas, peppers, potatoes, spinach, strawberries, tomatoes, watermelons.

Copies of the report may be obtained by writing the federal-state crop reporting service at the state department of agriculture in Sacramento.

EVERYBODY'S TALKING ABOUT THIS GREAT PLYMOUTH "Roadking"

This big, beautiful Plymouth has a new ride that's the year's sensation in the lowest-price field.

Of the 3 leading lowest-priced cars, the Plymouth "Roadking" is nearly 7 inches longer than one; more than 10 inches longer than the other!

All Plymouth models have the same big, 82-horsepower "L-head" engine for full power with economy.

YOU'LL BE SURPRISED how much the Plymouth "Roadking" differs from other lowest-priced cars.. though they cost about the same.

It's bigger...better engineered! Plymouth has 4-ring pistons, a chain-driven camshaft, Hypoid rear axle—differences that mean lower upkeep, longer life.

Try the exciting experience of driving the Plymouth "Roadking." Big, airplane-type shock-absorbers and "live" rubber body mountings smooth out bumps and vibration.

Experience the new smoothness of Plymouth's Floating Power engine mountings, the quiet of Plymouth's "radio studio" sound-proofing.

Get the safety of Plymouth's double-action hydraulic brakes... all-steel body with Safety Styling.

And it's easy to buy. Your present car will probably represent a large proportion of Plymouth's low delivered price...balance in surprisingly low monthly instalments. Call your nearby Plymouth dealer for a demonstration today!

The PAYOFF

BY HARRY GRAYSON
(Sports Editor, NEA Service)

Gene Tunney was talking about the Louis-Schmeling fight.

The ex-champion has not picked Schmeling, as you have repeatedly read.

He wants to see both in training before making a choice.

"Schmeling has the advantage of having once knocked out Louis," says Tunney. "Max also has the immeasurability of spiritual inspiration. He feels himself to be the representative of a new world-wide racial movement.

"But all this can be erased with a single punch.

"And my advice to Louis is to unload his heavy guns early.

"The trouble with Louis is that he tries to think.

"They tell you that Jack Blackburn is a big help to the Negro. He undoubtedly is . . . in training.

"But if I had Louis, I'd keep Blackburn out of his corner.

JUST LIKE COBB

"Blackburn reminds me of Ty Cobb trying to run the Detroit baseball club.

"Cobb expected every ball player to be able to do the things he did. He sent them out with that order, and they fell short.

"Blackburn is trying to make his 'Chappie' fight as he fought. Now, 'Chappie' may be just as good a fighter as Blackburn was, but 'Chappie' hasn't the keen fighting brain of a Blackburn, and when he stops to think his hands stop with his brain.

"I know this much about Joe Louis for sure. If he fights 30 years, he'll never know how to behave on the floor.

"That's the one thing in my boxing career of which I'm proud. I had never been knocked down . . . not even in a gymnasium . . . when Jack Dempsey clipped me in Chicago. Yet I instinctively knew what to do. I realize that I must have looked bad running away from Dempsey, but it was the only way out, and I had enough sense to take it."

SPIRIT OF MARINES

Tunney likes to recall the California sports writer who before the first Dempsey fight asked him with what he expected to whip Dempsey.

"With the spirit of the United States Marines," said Tunney.

The writer sought out Dempsey, and told him what the upstart had said.

"What's the spirit of the United States Marines?" asked the Man Mauler.

The writer, who happened to be a former marine, told him, as best he could, just what semper fidelis meant.

"Well, would you trade that for my left hook?" asked Dempsey.

But the writer took Tunney literally, and was one of a handful who picked him to beat Bronzed John, in Philadelphia.

Tunney can't see how Henry Armstrong can spot Barney Ross weight tomorrow night.

"Ross is a straight puncher. Armstrong is a swinger," he explains.

"A straight line is the shortest point, etc.

"After all, it's elemental."

Haas' Clothes Intrique Golf Fans of Britain

TROON, Scotland — (UP) — Freddie Haas of New Orleans, member of the U. S. Walker Cup team, intrigued spectators with his costume today. He wore a pair of pale blue trousers and a dark blue sweater on which was a large, yellow "L". The 'L" is for Louisiana from which he graduated last June.

Haas hit a tremendous drive at the first tee.

"Pretty good for a learner," a spectator remarked.

The letter "L" is carried on automobiles driven by neophytes here.

TUSTIN OPENS WITH WIN OVER LAGUNA

A rejuvenated Tustin team opened the Orange County Night league schedule with a 10-4 victory over Laguna Beach last night at Tustin.

Its lineup sprinkled with former National league stars, the Tustin nine shelled two Laguna Beach gunners. Les Neel, former Anaheim star, was the batting star with three-for-five, all singles. The box score:

SIX KNOCKOUTS ENLIVEN CARD: 'LOCALS' LOSE

Cash customers got their money's worth of action in a big way at the Orange County Athletic club last night, six of the eight bouts ending in clean knockouts, all the Santa Ana boys being losers, due obviously to lack of experience.

Charlie Stone of Fullerton junior college gave Tommy O'Connell the shellacking of his life in the main event, throwing more gloves than Fido has fleas to take three rounds with the fourth even. Stone brought the fans to their feet on several occasions in anticipation of a fast finish that just couldn't seem to be put over a payoff punch on the confused Los Angeles battler, who managed to stay on his pins through a barrage of haymakers to the head and chin.

Fernie Baca stopped Santa Ana's Jimmie Dugan in the second with a barrage of straight rights and lefts to the whiskers after knocking Dugan flat three times in the first round.

Marty Gomez knocked out clever little Dick Munoz with a right to the button in the fourth round of a hectic bout. Munoz got off to a swell start but was soon outsmarted by the more experienced Ontario boy. The lights went out during the third round of this bout and when they came on, both boys were leaning on the ropes apparently enjoying the unexpected vacation while Referee Charley Adams was searching the corners for them, much to the delight of the ringside customers.

"Red" O'Shannon draped Jack Taylor among the sweet peas in the third round of a dirty battle in which Adams came in for a razzing from the fans for allowing O'Shannon to punch low. In order to live up to the club's motto—"The customer is always right"—Adams allowed Taylor an extended rest period between the second and third rounds, although the Santa Anan was not injured and did not complain over the alleged low blows. Peeved at the fuss, O'Shannon rushed out at the bell for the third and finished Taylor with a barrage to the head and midsection.

Among other casualties, Charlie O'Connell, (Tommy's kid brother) finished six-foot-five "Bud" Soady in the fourth. Joe Gomez stopped Roy Stafford, Santa Ana colored boxer, in the third. B. Jiminez took to easy decision over Frankie Gardea. Badge Diaz was given a technical K. O. over Joe Ramirez at the end of the second after flooring the latter four times.

HARD-HITTING ELKS SWAMP M. E. SOUTH

Santa Ana's City league Elks continued on their merry way last night as they shutout M. E. South, 19-0, on the Municipal Bowl diamond. The Elks collected a total of 19 hits, all of which were singles while their three slabsters—Bruce Harnois, Fred Cartwright and Darwin Scott—limited the Mustangs to four hits.

The only extra base hit of the game was a triple by Ross Boyd of the losers.

Scoring 14 runs in the first two innings the Elks looked more like a National league club than a City wheeler. One more run crossed the plate in the fourth and four more in the sixth to complete the scoring.

Montgomery Ward and Eltiste company clash at the Bowl tomorrow night. The score:

TORNILLO GOES TO POST AT TANFORAN

Urban Plavan's Tornillo, winner of five of its last six starts, will go to the post at Tanforan again tomorrow, according to information received by the Santa Ana sportsman from his trainer, Mike Eaton.

The "Santa Ana horse" will face a field of allowance routers.

Urge Me, Plavan's three-year-old filly, was to run in the first race at Tanforan today.

Famous Match Races

Eternal gets a workout before his match race with Billy Kelly, at Laurel in the fall of 1918.

Second of a series on famous match races.

BY MAX RIDDLE
(NEA Service Turf Writer)

A year after Hourless beat Omar Khayyam, another spectacular match race was staged at the Laurel track, just two weeks before the Armistice was signed. Again it was the John R McLean Memorial, but this time it was a pair of juvenile champions, Eternal and Billy Kelly.

Earl Sande was a phenomenal kid coming up when he rode Billy Kelly in the fall of 1918.

Yet it took the finest ride of the brilliant Andy Schuttinger's career to get Eternal head's down in front of Billy Kelly at six furlongs.

Schuttinger stole a couple of lengths lead before Sande knew what was happening.

The first quarter was run in 23 4/5 seconds, and at that point Eternal was nearly three lengths to the good. At the half, Billy Kelly had not gained an inch. The time at that point was :47 2/5, excellent for Maryland tracks, which are fairly slow.

Sande was now desperate. He swung forward in his saddle and went to work on Billy Kelly. The horse had been fairly sluggish up to that point, but now he dropped his head and stretched out until he nearly flew.

Eternal went just a trifle wide on the turn and Billy Kelly picked up half a length. Schuttinger was aware of his danger and began to give Eternal a punishing ride.

Billy Kelly gained inch by inch. Fifty yards from home he was at Eternal's throat strap, and it appeared as though he might win. Eternal was tiring rapidly, but Schuttinger held the son of Sweep together just long enough to win. The time was 1:12.

UNDER 135 POUNDS

Billy Kelly and Sternal were equal winter boog favorites for the Kentucky Derby of 1919. Billy Kelly finished second. His stablemate, the erstwhile maiden, Sir Barton, won.

Billy Kelly finished his days as a saddle horse.

Eternal was retired to the stud, where he was a moderate success.

Match races come about because of the simultaneous rise of two or more exceptionally good horses. Generally they stand out above the rank and file. They are so well matched as to start a string of aguments as to their respective merits.

This was true in the case of Eternal and Billy Kelly.

The latter, on his record, must stand as one of the greatest juveniles ever developed.

His feat of winning a big stake event with 135 pounds on his back has been equalled only once by a 2-year-old. Years ago, Hamburg won such a victory. In weight carrying, Billy Kelly, Hamburg, and the immortal filly, Endurance By Right, top all lists.

Billy Kelly was a bay gelding by Dick Welles, out of Glena. He was bred by Jerome Respess of Kentucky, and was sold as a yearling by W. F. Polson for $700. Polson, after racing him part of his juvenile season, sold him to Commander J. K. L. Ross, the famous Canadian sportsman, for $27,500.

NEXT: Man o' War's phenomenal exhibition of speed against Sir Barton.

CORBETT 3-1 OVER BURKE AT SALT LAKE

SALT LAKE CITY — (UP) — Young Corbett III of Fresno, considered in some parts to be the uncrowned middleweight champion of the world, ruled a 3 to 1 favorite today for his 10 round bout tomorrow night with Jackie Burke of Ogden, intermountain titleholder.

DONS FINISH FOOTBALL TOIL

Coach Bill Cook called in Santa Ana junior college's football suits today, terminating a month of spring practice.

The Dons had expected to continue workouts through this week, and close their sessions with a "regular" game against the Pomona college varsity. But Pomona couldn't play Friday and Santa Ana couldn't Thursday so Coach Cook decided to "let's call the whole thing off."

"All in all we had a satisfactory spring practice," said Cook, "and I believe we'll have a representative team next fall. Many of the new players definitely proved to me they will work into our system.'

MORELLI AND JAKE GRAPPLE THURSDAY

The Italian smother vs. the Alaskan hammerlock and "stomp" will be featured Thursday night at the Orange County Athletic club where Tony "Killer" Morelli wrestles Yukon Jake.

Morelli has indicated that he expects to subdue Jake with the Italian smother, a combination of pure murder and fancy mayhem. Jake has said "if Morelli can last under my Alaskan hammerlock and 'stomp' I'll trade my boots for a pair of dancing slippers and I can't dance."

Pat O'Brien will try to put an Irish curse on "Comrade" Josef Smallinski. Other matches Feature Alvin Britt against Ted Christy and Sgt. Bob Keneston against the Black Dragon.

ROSS REMAINS 8-5 CHOICE OVER HENRY

NEW YORK — (UP) — Welterweight Champion Barney Ross remained today an 8-5 favorite to retain his title in Thursday's bout with Henry Armstrong of Los Angeles, featherweight titleholder.

Promoter Mike Jacobs said more than $80,000 worth of tickets had been sold, indicating a gate of at least $250,000 for the 15-round bout in Madison Square Garden bowl.

MALOTT REELS OFF 660 YARDS IN 1:18.5

PALO ALTO—(UP)—Stanford timers said today that the fastest 660 yard run by a Cardinal since the days of Ben Eastman was turned in by Ray Malott in a practice dash last night.

Malott, who was not paced, covered the distance in 1:18.5. The best Eastman ever turned in was 1:18.1. Malott will compete in the Coast conference championships this weekend.

PASTOR PICKED TO WIN FROM CROWELL

LOS ANGELES—(UP) — Bob Pastor, New York heavyweight boxer and one of the few to go the route with Joe Louis, was favored today over his much larger opponent "Chuck" Crowell, for their 10 round bout tonight at Olympic auditorium.

GOODMAN WINS OVER TEAMMATE RAY BILLOWS

TROON, Scotland — (UP) — Five members of the United States Walker Cup team advanced today in the British Amateur golf championship while three others were eliminated, two of them by teammates.

Survivors were Johnny Goodman of Omaha, Charley Yates of Atlanta, Francis Ouimet of Boston, "Chuck" Kocsis of Detroit, and Fred Haas, jr., of New Orleans Those put out were Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati and Marvin (Bud) Ward of Olympia, Wash.

Goodman and Yates advanced at the expense of teammates.

Goodman, U. S. National Amateur champion and former open title-holder, beat Billows, 4 and 2. The match was of especial interest as Billows was runner-up to Goodman in the 1937 Amateur played in Portland. This put Goodman in the third round. In a first-round match Yates beat Fischer, 1 up in 19 holes.

In the only other first-round match involving an American player, Haas, U. S. intercollegiate champion, scored an easy 7 and 6 triumph over A J. Ashworth of Britain.

In second-round matches Ouimet beat Dr. Will Twedell, former holder of the title, 4 and 3, while Kocsis beat William Peacock, a virtual unknown, 3 and 2.

Ward's defeat was a surprise. He bowed, 1 up in 20 holes, to Albert W. Briscoe of Ireland. Another U. S. Walker cupper, Reynolds Smith of Dallas, was idle. His second-round match will be played tomorrow.

CINCINNATI'S REDS REAL TITLE THREAT

NEW YORK — (UP)—As the old order changes in the National league the Cincinnati Reds begin to look like a bona fide pennant threat. The Reds moved into the third place today, only four games behind the pace-setting Giants and a game-and-a-half back of the second place Cubs.

While the Pirates and Cardinals, perennial first division clubs, have slumped into the second division, the Reds have come with a rush. Right now they're playing the hottest ball in the league, with a record of five out of six victories on their present Eastern trip. They've won four in a row and scored 39 runs to the opposition's 14 in the past six games.

Bill McKechnie has built a sound ball club at Cincinnati. It has speed, hustle, balanced pitching and a timely, if not robust attack.

Cincinnati beat Brooklyn yesterday, 6-4. Ivan Goodman led the Reds' 11-hit attack with two singles and two doubles. When Gene Schott weakened in the sixth Joe Cascarella came in and squelched the Dodgers.

TRIALS CONTINUED FOR MOTOR CLASSIC

INDIANAPOLIS. —(UP)—Thirty-four racing car pilots gained an extra day to tune their machines today before resuming qualifying trials for the 19 remaining positions in the annual 500-mile race Memorial Day.

Trials will be held again tomorrow and the contenders for the last of 33 places on the starting line likely will need a mark of at least 118 miles per hour to qualify.

Among the 34 were three former speedway champions—Kelly Petillo, Fred Frame and "Wild Bill" Cummings. Petillo already has taken two unsuccessful trips over the 25-mile trial course. His third and last is scheduled tomorrow.

Jimmy Snyder, Billy Winn, Shorty Cantlon and Al Putnam, other noted drivers, also were in the unqualified group.

Veteran drivers who saw the speedway record for 25 miles shattered twice within 24 hours predicted 118 miles per hour will be the lowest qualifying time. Ronnie Householder of Los Angeles set the new record of 125.769 m.p.h. in his trial Monday.

HIGH-LOW GOLFERS PLAY SEMI-FINALS

High-low golfers reached the semi-finals of their annual handicap tournament today after a week of competition. Pairings and third round results follow:

C.Denio and K.Herbert (d. H.Olson and Pat Kelley) vs. H.L. Miller and W.H.Snurgeon (d. W.Rohrbacker and R.G.Cartwright);

J.Robertson and C.P.Boyer (d. W Fletcher and M.Nelson) vs. H.A.Walker and Dr. J.B.Price (d. R.Hostetler and J.W.Beach);

G.A.Parker and W.Penn (d. D. Campbell and A.H.Bradley vs. Dick Ewert and J.R.Huber (d. L.R.Kennedy and J.E.Liebig);

C.D.Holmes and C.D.Holmes Jr. (d. H.S.Wright and C.Shields) vs. F.E. Farnsworth and R.C.McMillan (d. Dean Collver and Paul Hall).

WEST WINDS

Here and There in Local Sport

By EDDIE WUST

ORANGE COUNTY MAY HAVE TWO TOP TRACK TEAMS OF 1939

Santa Ana and Huntington Beach may not finish better than fourth or fifth in the State high school track meet at Hollister Saturday. But in 1939? Ah, sir, that is another matter.

Neither Coach Reece Greene nor Harry Sheue would like me, of all persons, counting their chicks before they're hatched. Nothing is as disappointing as a favorite flopping. Just the same, Santa Ana and Huntington Beach will have the best "big meet" teams they've ever had. I shouldn't be surprised if they finish one-two next May.

Reece Greene

Santa Ana made 13 points in this year's Southern California championships and might do equally as well in the State classic. Huntington Beach scored 9. The Saints have 10 of those points coming back. the Oilers all 9. With 'em will be reinforcements.

Huntington Beach starts with a cinch 10 points from Eddie Morris, its brilliant sprinter. Santa Ana has nobody to compare with Morris yet it will have the best balanced squad of sprinters in the school's history, plus two lads who won't miss far being C.I.F. champions in the hurdles. And the Santa Ana relay team should be even faster next year; it was good enough last Saturday to beat everything in Southern California but Compton.

Wayne Piper, Jerome Duffy, Howard Elliott and Melvin Barron are the sprinters I have in mind. They probably will compose a relay team capable of bettering 1:30. Yet in major meets, only Piper will confine himself to the dashes.

Coach Greene believes Duffy will be a 24-second low hurdler. The kid ran only two competitive hurdle races all this year. The first was in the trials for the Citrus Belt league meet and the second at the league finals. He was neck and neck with the leader going over the last hurdle but tried to clip it too closely. He nicked the barrier and fell. Unplaced, Duffy wasn't eligible for the All-Southern.

The other Saint steeplechase champ will be Barron, whose career is even more amazing than Duffy's. Like Duffy, the lanky Barron's first competition in the hurdles came at the C.B.L. affair. He ran a cool 15.2 his first time out. He hit two hurdles in the Southern Cal. race and still finished a driving third. Next year? Next year? Barron must practice diligently. If he does, his marks could be as remarkable as Eddie Morris' in the sprints. Greene won't say so but I believe he considers Barron potentially in the 14.8 class in the highs and right around 24 flat in the lows.

Elliott, the quarter-miler, is the best 440 man the Saints ever had although he is still a green, inexperienced runner. Good enough to finish third in the Southern Cal. met, Elliott could be the winner next year in sensational time. Probably under 50 flat. I know all th' reads like a Brick Morse treatise on the Golden Bears of California but it's in the cards, men, it's in the cards. Don't say I didn't tell you.

Beyond the Messrs. Barron, Duffy, Elliott and Piper, the 1939 Santa Anans will have no proven performers. There are some pretty fair prospects, at that. Bob Frias ran a 2:6 half-mile once this season and might chop four or five seconds off that because the distance was new to him. A sophomore named Granados looked like a promising runner over the trick 660 route. There were two sophomore shot shovers who beat the league record every time out. Bill Hull will have to make up his mind to be a shot putter, and spend time at it. If he does he might be up around 50 feet along with Orosco and Parisis Roussos, the Lathrop strong boy who already does 45 feet in junior high school.

Huntington Beach won't be as "deep" as the Saints but what it has will be like money in the bank. If any sprinter in California beats Morris next year I'm Henry McLemore. And Morris won't be all.

In the excitement of the big Class A meet, the boys forgot all about the "B" and "C" championships last Saturday. Well, Coach Harry Sheue's Oilers rolled up 27½ points in the A, B and C divisions. That was more "mass production" than any other high school in Southern California except San Diego's Hoover hi.

In Class B. Huntington Beach came up with a sophomore vaulter named Jimmy Stangeland who cleared 12 feet, 7 inches, and a junior (James Zoeter) who did 12:3. Give those babies another year under Sheue and Al Reboin (Sheue modestly says Reboin should have the credit) and they might easily finish one-two at the Southern Cal. and State meets.

Morris' 10 points and the vaulters' 9 could be enough, although I may have talked myself into giving Santa Ana 20 or 25. I'm reckless with somebody's else's points.

HUNTALAS DON TRACK CAPTAIN

Santa Ana jaysee's track captain next year will be Bill Huntalas, the chunky sprinter from Oceanside who won the 100 yard dash in the Southern California prep meet last year.

Huntalas nosed out Vaulter Nolan Beat of Anaheim in a close election, completed by Coach Bill Cook today.

Huntalas runs the 100 in 10 seconds flat and was broad-jumping 23 feet at the end of this season.

CAPISTRANO STOPS COSTA MESA, 13-3

With Reginald Nieblas striking out 10 swatsmen, San Juan Capistrano opened its 1938 County league softball season with a 13-3 victory over Costa Mesa last night at San Juan Capistrano.

Capistrano hopped on Costa Mesa's starting gunner, Myrehn, for nine runs in the fourth inning. Foy Montoya, who finished on the ridge for Costa Mesa, hit a home run in the first inning.

Hollywood Club Fined $1100 For Forfeiting Game

LOS ANGELES — (UP) — The Hollywood baseball club today was ordered to pay $1100 fines for causing Umpire Cicero Gault Falls to forfeit the second game of Sunday's double header to Sacramento.

President W. C. Tuttle of the Pacific Coast league imposed the penalty, expressing belief that "Umpire Falls did right." Tuttle said it is "an automatic $1000 fine on the ball club for having a game forfeited, and an automatic $100 fine also goes to the manager of the guilty club."

Manager Wade Killefer of the Hollywood club, who must pay his fine before he can appear on the field again as manager, said he would appeal.

The dispute arose over a ball pitched by Wayne Osborne of Hollywood. Osborne flung off his glove and stalked from the mound when Umpire Falls called the throw a ball. Falls sent Osborne to the dressing rooms, and Killefer and other Hollywood players ran onto the field and argued with the umpire.

Falls called the game and awarded the game to Sacramento, 9 to 0. Angry spectators chased Falls to his dressing room, and a police riot squad was called to escort him from the park.

Tonight's Games

Huntington Beach at Santa Ana; Brea at Anaheim; Irvine at Orange; Whittier at San Bernardino.

The great Huntington Beach softball circus, with Joe Rodgers as ringmaster, plays a one-stand stand in the Municipal Bowl tonight at 8:15.

It will be the season's first appearance of the Oilers against Santa Ana. As usual, they come to town as league-leaders, and with an undefeated record.

Rodgers thinks it will be the same old circus—a parade of Huntington Beach runs against a helpless constellation of Stars.

"Tell Doc Smith to have his best on the field because our Yes Men are sore at him about the cracks he made at us this year," roared Rodgers. Early this season Smith referred to the Oilers as yes-men to Rodgers, the noisy Oiler manager.

"Tell Rodgers," countered Santa Ana's Smith, "that we concede him nothing, for all his million-dollar ball team. We have an even chance. And tell him we don't like some of the cracks he's been taking at us in his self-written publicity broadsides."

Huntington Beach is only one game ahead of Santa Ana so if the Stars do the unexpected they can become co-leaders of the National league. Smith's optimism is based on the fact that Pitcher Stanley Jacobsmeyer always has been rather effective against the erstwhile champions. He broke even with 'em last year and really should have won one game that was lost.

"If Jake has his control we'll give 'em a ball game," promised Manager Smith, who is leaving Santa Ana's lineup unchanged except that he'll be second in the batting order. Shortstop Tom Lacy, drops to seventh place where Smith has been swinging.

There is an outside possibility Jimmy Coates will be in Santa Ana's lineup, but as an outfielder rather than a pitcher.

The Stars have been after Jim all season. He can't pitch in the National because of a Long Beach City league rule against it (Coates' employer's team being in that circuit) but there is nothing to prevent Jim from playing some other position. And Coates is quite a hitter.

Many believe that Huntington Beach brings here the strongest lineup it has ever had, not barring even the Looie Neva days. Venn Botts is pitching for the Oilers now. He's a veteran as softball slingers go but at that he's only 28.

In the spring of 1928, Botts launched his twirling career with Colton. He proceeded to pitch the inlanders to two successive loop titles and one all-Southern California championship.

Moving to Rialto for the 1932 and 1933 seasons, Botts sparked his team mates to two successive championships. In 1934 he migrated to San Bernardino, scene of many later triumphs, and pitched the Ponies to a spot near the top.

Botts returned to Colton in 1935, and with him went the American league title. He signed with San Bernardino in 1936 and once again captured the league bunting. He pitched the Ponies into the finals of last season's Shaughnessy playoff series only to lose to Anaheim.

Walter Wentz and S. S. (Shorty) Smith have been assigned to umpire tonight's contest. Wentz will be at the plate.

ARRANGE DEDICATION OF BEACH PAVILION

FORMER STAR TO TAKE PART

HUNTINGTON BEACH, May 24—Mrs. George P. Converse (Anita Stewart) former cinema star, now a prominent society woman, will open the new $75,000 beach pavilion and civic auditorium at dedication ceremonies at 3 p. m. next Saturday.

The former cinema actress starred in "The Goddess," "In Old Kentuck," "Never the Twain Shall Meet" and others. "The Devil's Toy," a book written by Mrs. Converse aboard her spacious cruiser, "Dorsal," was published recently.

The Orange County Federal Music band directed by Leon Eckles will present a concert at 2:30 p. m. Saturday. Skipper Walter Dabney and his Sea Scouts from the Huntington Beach ship will preside at flag raising ceremonies. The American and the California flags will be hoisted on two poles at the entrance.

P. W. A. officials and the architects, Walker and Eisen, will turn the key to the handsome structure over to Mayor M. M. McCallen, who will receive them for the city. Miss Stewart will unlock the doors. Further ceremonies are being planned by city and chamber of commerce officials.

Aids Program

Mrs. George P. Converse (Anita Stewart), former film star, who will take part in the dedication ceremonies at the new Huntington Beach pavilion Saturday.

Dinner Enjoyed In Garden Grove

GARDEN GROVE, May 24.—The lovely garden of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kiser, 300 Cypress street, was the setting for a pot luck dinner in celebration of the birthday anniversaries of Mr. Kiser, George William, of Santa Ana; Dan Adams and Mr. Voice, of Tustin.

Bouquets of mixed flowers and two large birthday cakes graced the tables arranged beneath the large pepper trees. After the dinner the group adjourned to the house for informal card games. The honorees were presented with humorous gifts.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. George Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Lytle Larsen and daughter, Vera; Mrs. Ted Bose, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Dan Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Voice, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Kiser, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Shelhous, of Tustin; Mrs. Matilda Mahrhood and daughter, Jean, of Orange; Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Larsen, Charles Olsen of Garden Grove.

Engagement Of Couple Revealed

MIDWAY CITY, May 24.— The engagement of Miss Patricia Holly and Melvin Heil was revealed at a post wedding shower held for Mrs. Glenn Holcomb (nee Mary Arnett) here recently.

Miss Frances Heil and Miss Holly were the co-hostesses and it was following an evening of games and dancing at the refreshment hour, that a cleverly, concealed note found by one of the guests in the lovely large pink and white cake which was served on the buffet menu, revealed the engagement.

Miss Holly and Mr. Heil, brother of her co-hostess, will be married June 26.

Mrs. Holcomb was the recipient of a 20-piece set of pottery dishes. Winning prizes in games played were Dorothy Mayberry and Lois Hart.

Attending were Robert Rumbould, Clarence Wasser, Carl Warner, Dale Heil, Bill Rogers, Clayton VanSteenbergh, Harvey Arnett, Dorothy Mayberry, Naomi Beck, Betty Heil, Marybelle Jones, Marjie Field, Doris Hart, Lois Hart, Emmaetta Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Holcomb, Miss Holly and Melvin Heil and Miss Frances Heil.

Mrs. Lindauer Is Hostess To Club

LA HABRA, May 24—Mrs. Gus Lindauer was the hostess at the recent meeting of the Triple T club at her home on North Hiatt street. A 1 o'clock dessert course was served upon arrival of the guests. Bridge was played during the afternoon, with prizes being won by Mrs. Louis Muchow, first; Mrs. John W. F. Smith, second and Mrs. C. L. Crumrine of Fernando, low.

Others attending were Mrs. H. S. Hoard, Mrs. R. F. Smith and Mrs. Gold Lindauer, all guests of the club, and members, Mrs. E. H. Little, Mrs. N. M. Launer, Mrs. Bruce Stanford, Mrs. A. J. Wilson, Mrs. W. F. Heiden, Mrs. William Gluth, Mrs. Rollo Walling, Mrs. R. F. Frantz, Mrs. Edgar Luehm, Mrs. E. A. Johnson, and the hostess.

NEW HOMES STARTED

WESTMINSTER, May 24—Construction of two new homes has begun in New Westminster. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Weaver, now residents of Sixteenth and Cedar streets, are building a five room frame house on Nineteenth street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Haber, of Santa Ana, are erecting a six room stucco on Fourteenth street, near Huntington Beach boulevard.

CHAPTER TO MEET

GARDEN GROVE, May 24—Mrs. Jennie Shipe, deputy grand matron of the 60th district, will make her official visit to the Garden Grove chapter of the Eastern Star in I. O. O. F. hall, Anaheim, May 28. All members are urged by the worthy matron, Clara Bryan to attend the meeting, which is scheduled to open promptly at 8 p. m.

New Postmaster For Midway City

MIDWAY CITY, May 24—Midway City has a new postmaster, Miss Wilma Price, who succeeds Mrs. Myrtle Robertson, who resigned. Mrs. Robertson and her daughters will leave with the close of school for Avanel, where Mr. Robertson is employed in the oil fields.

Official word has been received from Washington that Midway City is now a third class office.

Miss Price will act as temporary postmaster until such time as a new official is appointed.

QUARTET IN PROGRAM

WESTMINSTER, May 24.—The auditorium of Westminster Presbyterian church and adjoining Sunday school rooms were filled to overflowing Sunday night for the program of the male quartet of the Country Church of Hollywood which was sponsored by the local church and the Community and Nazarene churches of Midway City.

Following the program the members of the quartet and their wives and the Rev. and Mrs. Murray Pallett, the Rev. and Mrs. C. N. Jones and the Rev. and Mrs. George N. Greer were entertained by choir members of the Westminster church during a social hour at the church social hall. Refreshments of cake and coffee were served.

CENTER TOLD SCHOOL COSTS

LA HABRA, May 24.—A discussion of costs and benefits of the present educational system in La Habra was held at the meeting of the farm center Monday night. C. J. Brower, superintendent of the local elementary schools, and Louis E. Plummer, superintendent of the Fullerton Union High school and district junior college were the two main speakers.

The regular business meeting of the center was transacted previous to the speeches and reports were heard from Ross Hodson, farm bureau director, and from Judge F. D. Haim, of La Habra, who recently was presented with a gold medal at Vista for his work in the promotion of the avocado industry.

Ross Crane, of Santa Ana, assistant farm advisor; Ralph McFadden, past president of the farm bureau, and John McLeod, field secretary for the farm bureau, were present and spoke briefly.

Entertainment was furnished by Miss Mildred Gage, and Miss June Massey of the Fullerton junior college. Miss Gage played two 'cello solos and gave a reading. Miss Massey was accompanist.

C. OF C. HEADS TO MEET

HUNTINGTON BEACH, May 24—Presidents, vice presidents and secretaries of Orange county chambers of commerce will meet at the Golden Bear cafe Thursday for the monthly luncheon meeting of the boosters.

CHAMBER HOLDS DISCUSSION ON NEW TUSTIN AUDITORIUM

TUSTIN, May 24.—A lively discussion on the need of an auditorium for the Tustin elementary school was held at an open meeting of the Tustin chamber of commerce Monday night in the school kindergarten room, with a group of prominent citizens, including taxpayers and parents, present. Edwin Cox, president of the chamber of commerce, who presided, stated that organization was neutral on the proposition.

Superintendent E. E. Harwood of the grammar school stated that the cost of an auditorium, with around 400 seating capacity, would be about $40,000 and that he had written to the PWA office in San Francisco and that the PWA would be willing to furnish 45 per cent of the money.

Figures Cited

With the government providing $18,000, the district would only need to raise $22,000, Harwood explained. The school board could raise this by a straight tax levy of 20 cents on the $100 assessed valuation, he said. This district has an assessed valuation of $6,000,000. It would take two years to pay off the 55 per cent of the cost, Harwood said. If the school board members believe that the district wants the auditorium, they will include the 20 cent direct tax in this year's July budget, it was stated. Public hearing is set for August 5.

C. A. Vance stated that from the standpoint of a taxpayer, he was opposed to the auditorium at this time as "we are still in the depression."

J. J. Woodward said that when he was a member of the school board about seven years ago, that the old auditorium, destroyed by the earthquake, was used about three times a year and there were about 100 pupils more then than there are now. The partition between Mrs. Violet Irvine's and Miss Lucy Royce's rooms, or two other large class rooms, could be taken out to make an auditorium, according to Woodward.

Tax Boost Opposed

Walter West, president of the school board, stated that he is opposed to increased taxes at this time. The board will have to hire one less teacher next year due to decreased attendance, he stated. Other members of the board, A. M. Robinson and William Armstrong, made no statements.

R. R. Caldwell declared he was in favor of building the auditorium as PWA money may not be available later.

50th Anniversary Observed at H. B.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, May 24.—Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Smith of 904 Acacia street, held open house today commemorating their 50th wedding anniversary. GASOLINE TAX ATTITUDE TOLD

SACRAMENTO, May 24—Widespread misapprehension concerning the attitude of the California Highway commission and its officials on discussions of proposals for an increase in the gasoline tax to care for future highway development and repair of the $9,400,000 worth of highway damage caused by storms and floods of last winter, today prompted H. R. Judah, chairman of the California Highway commission, to issue the following statement:

"My attention having been drawn to newspaper comment on the question of increasing gasoline tax income in California to care for recognized highway needs of the future, it should be made clear that statements made by myself on a recent tour of the highway commission through the northern and central sections of the state relative to the necessity of highway improvements keeping pace with state growth were completely educational.

"It is now the avowed policy of the highway commission to deal frankly with the public concerning every type of problem that confronts the highway department.

"Good sound reasons exist for every statement made by me on the tour just completed. I should like to have it clearly understood that, neither Governor Merriam nor any other state official, nor the department of public works, nor highway commission is advocating any increase in tax costs for the highway department."

Rotarians Hear World Peace Plea

A plea for trade agreements between the United States and foreign countries not only for the economic benefits that might accrue but as a means of establishing world peace, was made by George H. Moore, secretary of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, at the regular meeting of the Santa Ana Rotary club this afternoon in Masonic Temple.

Economic isolation through the use of high tariff walls begets hatred between nations and inevitably end in war, Moore said.

Preceding the principal speaker of the day, Edward M. Hall, chairman of the citizen's committee, asked the support of the club for the Orange County Concert series, introducing Mrs. Babcock Burns, representative of the Behymer-Wilson management, sponsors of the series.

Stanley Goode introduced William F. Croddy, local realtor as a new member of the club.

Noted Economist Called by Death

ITHACA, N. Y., May 24.—(UP)—Prof. George F. Warren, 64, of Cornell University, agricultural economist who had a prominent part in shaping the United States monetary policy in the early days of the Roosevelt administration, died today.

Warren was one of the most prominent agricultural economists in the country and headed that department at Cornell for nearly 18 years.

His studies on the relationship between the price of gold and economic conditions were brought to President Roosevelt's attention early in the formation of the New Deal. Warren held that conditions could be improved by advancing the price of gold from the previous standard rate of $20.67 an ounce.

U. S. Begins Quiz In Plane Death

HANFORD, Cal., May 24.—(UP)—A department of commerce investigation was launched today into the fatal burning of Miss Beatrice Nadon, 29, Burlingame aviatrix, in an airplane fire at the Hanford airport late Sunday.

By a vote of eight to one, a coroner's jury last night returned a verdict of "unavoidable death" after an inquest into the tragedy. John Harmon, Hanford rancher, in a minority report accused the department of commerce of negligence for not having the grass on the runway burned before Sunday's air circus at the airport.

Witnesses at the inquest included Tex Rankin, famed stunt flyer, and Robert Lien, department of commerce aviation inspector who was piloting the plane in which Miss Nadon was burned to death.

English Actor Victim of Dog

HOLLYWOOD, May 24.—(UP)—Ian Hunter, English actor known for his "gentleman" roles on the American screen, was ordered by a doctor to take Pasteur treatments today after being attacked and bitten by a pet dog.

The pet, a Dalmatian, leaped at the 37 year old actor and severely slashed his legs, arms and hands while Hunter was attempting to treat the dog. Hunter had noticed his pet appeared ill but did not suspect the dog had gone mad.

He shook the dog's teeth loose from a grip on his forearm and grappled with it until help came. Police shot the dog.

A physician treated the actor's wounds and ordered the Pasteur treatments.

GOATS REDUCE FIRE HAZARD

MOLINE, Ill., (UP)—Thirty Angora goats, 28 adults and two kids, are maintained at the 27-acre lumber storage lot of the John Deere Wagon works here as protection against fires. It formerly was necessary to employ several men to keep grass and weeds cut between the lumber piles to eliminate fire hazards.

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON'S "KIDNAPED" SCREENS SOON

From the world's great stories come the greatest motion pictures and "Kidnaped," which Robert Louis Stevenson considered his best, proved this axiom to the hilt when it was completed as a film. It's ready for screening at the West Coast beginning Wednesday.

Second billing brings June Lang and Dick Baldwin in a thrilling, romantic picture, "One Wild Night." Mr. Popeye also offers a jolly cartoon, "I Yam Lovesick."

"Kidnaped" is headed by Warner Baxter and Freddie Martholomew; then there is an impressive additional cast, including Arleen Whalen, C. Aubrey Smith, John Carradine, Reginald Owen, Nigel Bruce, Ralph Forbes and H. B. Warner.

Baxter portrays in all of his swashbuckling, vigorous best, the never-to-be-forgotten Alan Breck, fugitive clansman of the highlands. And Freddie, a size or two larger now, gives a fine performance to the role of David Balfour, boy hero of the piece.

Hundreds Attend Annual Wool Show

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 24—(UP)—Purebred rams and ewes from the western United States were exhibited here today as the 18th annual ram sale and wool show opened under sponsorship of the California Woolgrowers Association.

Frank C. Clark, of Laytonville, association president, said more than 1700 entries were on display at the California state fair grounds. Ten perpetual trophies, fifty other trophies and hundreds of ribbons will be awarded by judges.

The ram sale is the biggest of its kind in the state while sponsors of the wool show declare it the largest in the country. Entries are received from California, Nevada, Arizona, Utah, Washington, Idaho, Wyoming, Oregon and Canada.

COMEDY, 'PEN' DRAMA COMING

"He Couldn't Say No," the intriguing comedy about the man who falls in love with a statue, and "Over the Wall," a gripping melodrama with Dick Foran falsely imprisoned for murder and his subquent rise to fame with beautiful singing voice, double bill at Walker's beginning Wednesday.

Jan Rubini's orchestra and world news also are offered. In "He Couldn't Say No," the statue is that of a senator's young daughter whom Frank McHugh long has worshipped from afar though he has never met her.

When the statue is put up for sale, McHugh buys it with his last, hard-earned money, only to amaze everyone, including a mother and her daughter who, thinking him wealthy "go" after his money. So do gangsters and the statue-girl herself, but for different reasons! Cora Witherspoon, Jane Wyman, Diana Lewis and Berton Churchill are in the cast.

Presbyterian Assembly Begins

PHILADELPHIA, May 24.—(UP)—The 150th general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States opened today with an evangelist conference and ceremonies commemorating the 200th anniversary of the conversion of John Wesley at Aldersgate, Eng.

Although the formal opening of the assembly will not be until Thursday, it was estimated that more than half the 2000 delegates representing congregations throughout the United States and mission fields in all parts of the world, were on hand.

Before the assembly ends June 1 it will choose its third stated clerk in history, for the Rev. Dr. Lewis Seymour Mudge is retiring after 17 years of service. Dr. William H. Roberts was the only other stated clerk of the assembly.

TUSTIN, May 24.—Mr. and Mrs. John King, of Balboa Heights Canal Zone, arrived recently to spend the summer with Mrs. King's mother, Mrs. W. M. Belding, of East Seventeenth street.

HISTORY MADE BY STEAMSHIP

WASHINGTON, (UP) — Steamship passenger service across the Atlantic was inaugurated 100 years ago this month.

By a coincidence, two British ships steamed into New York harbor on the same day—April 23, 1838, just 100 years ago—to begin steamship service that has continued almost uninterrupted ever since.

The vessels, the Sirius from Cork and the Great Western from Bristol, left their home ports four days apart and unknowingly engaged in the first trans-Atlantic steamship race.

The Sirius, no larger than a harbor tug and never built for ocean travel, puffed into New York harbor first, surprising the harbor men who previously had regarded such crossings only as stunts. As soon as the news spread through the city, New Yorkers jammed the docks in a welcome that rivaled those accorded trans-Atlantic fliers nearly a century later.

Big Day for New York

The Great Western docked a few hours later—also unexpectedly—to turn the occasion into the most exciting day New Yorkers had seen since the War of 1812, according to the Smithsonian Institution.

Great Western crew members were disappointed to learn they had been beaten by hours, but were consoled by the fact their ship had left the British Isles four days later.

The Great Western, which made its initial crossing with seven passengers, was built as the result of a sarcastic suggestion that the Great Western Railway of England be extended to America.

The suggestion was made jokingly at a meeting of the railroad's directors who were discussing ambitious expansion plans. The directors took the idea seriously, however, and ordered constructed the first steamship ever made expressly for ocean travel.

Fire nearly destroyed the Great Western before it sailed for America, but its 15-day cross was uneventful.

Sirius Was Channel Boat

The Sirius' career was the opposite of the Great Western's in almost every respect. The Sirius was built for channel service between London and Cork. She was sent on her trans-oceanic voyage by Junius Smith, an American who had formed the British and American Navigation Company to establish steamship service between England and the United States.

Smith had ordered a steamer, but became impatient before it was completed. He hurriedly outfitted the Sirius and sent it westward.

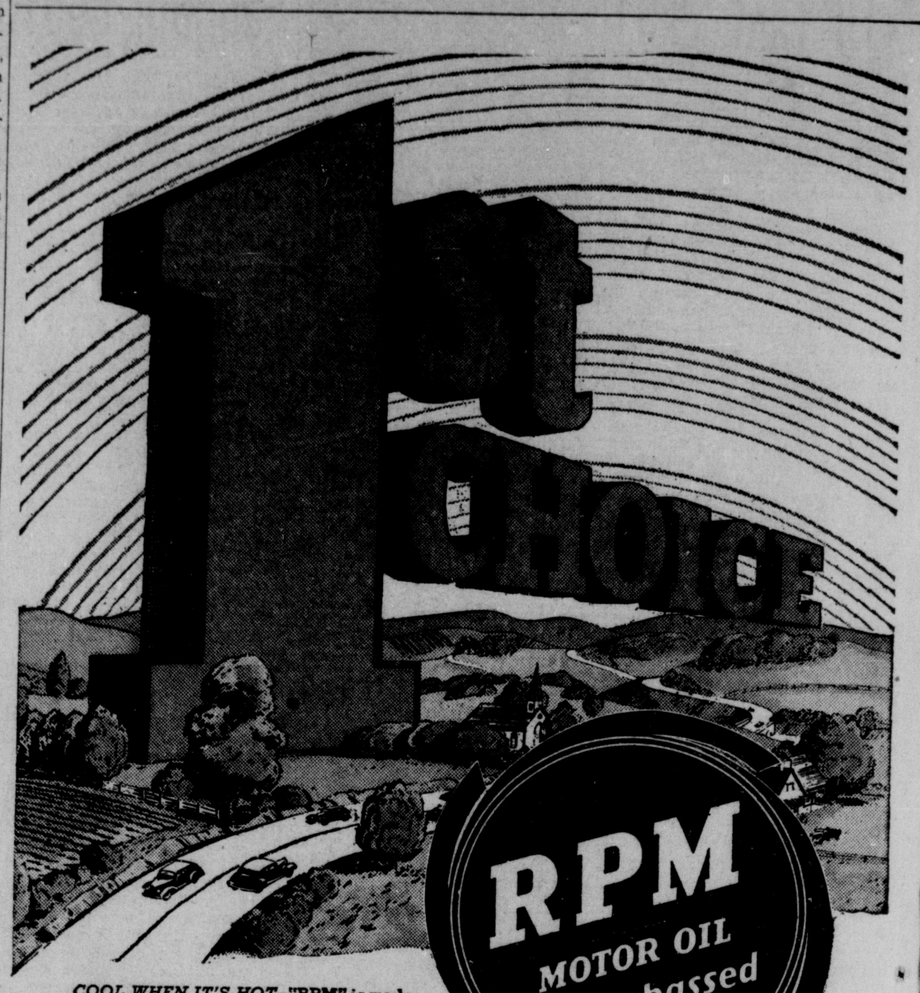

The Sirius, her holds stuffed with coal and resin, ran into trouble as soon as she left port. Head winds rolled the narrow vessel so badly that many seamen were seasick. Then a full-fledged storm smashed down on the little craft. The frightened crew, wanting to turn back, mutinied and had to be subdued with arms.

During the 19 days it was at sea, the Sirius consumed all of its fuel and actually had to burn some of the spars in order to make New York.

Although the Sirius was the first steamship to carry passengers across the Atlantic, an American vessel had steamed across the ocean ninej years previously. The ship was the Savannah, a sailing boat equipped with engines and paddlewheels. In 1819 the vessel crossed—with the aid of both steam and sails—to St. Petersburg, Russia. The owners attempted to sell the boat to the Russian government, but were turned down. They returned the ship to America and reconverted her into a sailing vessel.

COUNTY SCOUT PATROL WINS IN MEET

Jimmie Fidler in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, May 24.—Idol Chatter: Claudette Colbert is never so beautiful as when she is mad which—I regret to report—is often. Best off-screen comedy of the week: Bob Burns' description of "how I quieted the baby." Fred MacMurray is a conservationist—he never runs when he can walk, never walks when he can stand and never stands when he can sit. Rudy Vallee seems to consider a meal incomplete without lettuce and Thousand Island dressing.

The wardrobe worn by a glamour gal in a Class "A" picture costs her studio about $5,000. Collector's Note: Joan Blondell can't resist sea scapes. Bet most of the screen Romeos who sneer at westerns would be glad to trade their fan mail for Buck Jones's pay checks. Whenever a visitor appears on a Kay Francis set, the lady is in a dither until she learns his identity. Weekly bulletins: Tyrone Power's hobby—today—is bicycle riding.

You would be surprised if you knew the same of the European star who has gone in for nudism. Odes to pessimism: the practice of shooting all needed publicity stills of stunt pilots BEFORE they start work in an aviation opus. No love lost: June Parker and Mary Carlisle. Just to settle an argument for two Chicago readers, they are both wrong—Clark Gable's real name is William Goebel.

Wish some of the critics who write me letters panning the make-up of screen players had been with me this morning. At M-G-M, I noticed on the call sheet that my favorite character actress, Gale Sondergaard, was working in "Lord Jeff" and promptly went to the set for a chat with her. Freddie Bartholomew was working in closeups when I arrived and, failing to see anyone resembling Miss Sondergaard, I took my stance by the camera to await her arrival. After fifteen minutes, I gave up and turned to go. And then I heard a chuckle and a well-known voice. "Aren't you speaking to your acquaintances today?" It was Gale—made up as an old lady. She had been sitting within ten feet of me all the while, amused because I did not recognize her.

Edward Everett Horton tells about the nerviest autograph hunter on record. Seems this chap arrived at Eddie's ranch house, some twenty miles from Hollywood, yesterday and informed the servant who came to the door that he had to see Mr. Horton—"on important business." VENTURA EVENT REPORT MADE

A clean scoop of every event in the "Sweepstakes" competition against more than 2000 Boy Scouts at the fourth annual Region 12 Camporal held at Steckle Park, Ventura county, is the record of Orange County Emergency Patrol, Troop 13.

This was the report submitted to the executive board of the Orange County Council of Boy Scouts, meeting at College Hall last night, by Dick Wright, troop leader, and Ray Herman, assistant troop leader. More than 100 scouts from Orange county attended the camporal.

Get Field Radios

In the competition, the scouts were judged in five different specifications—Fellowship, Campcraft, Appearance, Preparedness and Achievement.

Because of their outstanding performance, the local troop will be given two field radios and four miles of wire equipment by the Ventura county forestry board.

Met Picked Units

Scouts in the encampment were the "picked units" of more than 20 councils throughout the Southland and as far north as Fresno.

The winning troop is made up of older boys who have devoted themselves to forestry. H.L. Douglas is troop advisor. Raymond O. Hanson, regional executive of Arizona, Nevada, Utah and California, stated to Harrison White, Orange county scout executive, that the "emergency patrol unit" gave the finest demonstration of scout forestry that I have seen in all my years of scout work."

The troop has at present five methods of communication: short wave radio, heliograph, semaphore, Morse code by flags, and Morse code by lights for night communication. All electric signaling equipment carries its own electrical supply.

Speed Emphasized

Speed in mobilization has been emphasized by the troop, the nine members of the patrol living within a 15 mile radius of each other and can completely set up their camp anywhere in the county in one hour.

According to police records there were 28,885 cars stolen in the state of Massachusetts last year.

Teachers Learn Kinship Counts In 'Excuse, Please'

The office-boy excuse of attending grandmother's funeral was rejected last night by the Santa Ana board of education in case of a teacher who took a day off.

Even though the board knew that the teacher really attended her grandmother's funeral and was not at a ball game, the teacher's request for restoration of the day's salary, which had been deducted, was refused.

Degree of Kinship

In its action, the board drew a line between degrees of relationship in designating valid excuse for absence from duty. The death of an aunt was accepted as valid excuse in the case of one teacher, whose salary was restored, while the death of a niece of another teacher did not justify that teacher's absence from duty, on school time, the board ruled. A sister-in-law's death was ruled out, but in another teacher's case, a father-in-law's death was ruled vaild, this being due to a touch of tragedy in the latter case, the father-in-law having been an accident victim.

Salary Granted

In two cases, the deaths of mothers were accepted without question and no salary deductions were made.

Another teacher, who was absent four days while in quarantine, was restored her salary of $38.44 for that period, being legally entitled to it. Altogether, the board restored $105.81 in salary deductions to five teachers, and refused restoration of $54.32 to four teachers.

MAN FACES TRIAL ON GRAND THEFT

Manuel Murillo, Anaheim, was arrested at Independencia colony last night by Deputy Sheriffs Harvey Gulick and Tom Murphine while in possession of a car belonging to Joe Lopez, Anaheim. He was charged with grand theft of auto.

Murillo, the officers reported, had no driver's license and had just completed serving a 75-day county jail term for drunk driving, the license being taken up when he was convicted. Murillo claimed he obtained the consent of Lopez' nephew before taking the car.

No Market Specified

An item in yesterday's Register dealing with the smallpox situation, which made reference to "employes of the Santa Ana market where an employe worked three days while afflicted with the disease", did not, of course, designate any particular market, as its capitalization and punctuation shows. Some readers, however, are reported to have thought it meant The Santa Ana Market, at 1030-32 South Main street, which was not the case. There were no cases of smallpox at The Santa Ana Market.

Jaysee Gets National Journalism Society

Sigma Chapter, Beta Phi Gamma

Additional recognition was given Santa Ana Junior college's journalism department last night when officials of Beta Phi Gamma, national honorary co-educational journalism fraternity, came here to induct the students and newspapermen pictured above into Sigma chapter of the society. The charter for the new Santa Ana college group was presented to Vic Rowland, local chapter president, by Mrs. Glenn B. Merryfield of San Bernardino, national executive secretary of Beta Phi Gamma. Representatives from a number of Southland schools attended the installation ceremonies.

DEMOLAYS FROLIC AT ANNUAL PICNIC

Nearly 1000 Southland DeMolays, parents and friends gathered at the Irvine park this week for their second annual picnic, as guests of the Santa Ana chapter of DeMolay.

The DeMolays came from as far north as Santa Barbara and as far south as San Diego, Schrier stated. Committee chairmen in charge of the picnic and celebration were Herbert Lycan, Ralph Pagenkopp and John Schrier.

The morning was occupied with a business meeting of delegates from the various chapters, and a meeting of the Masonic advisors of the DeMolays. Dr. Roy F. Horton was the Santa Ana Masonic advisor in charge of arrangements.

Foreign Trade Of State Is Subject

A discussion of Southern California and it's foreign trade, by Lloyd V. Roberts, special representative of the Los Angeles Harbor department, will be presented at the regular meeting of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club in Masonic temple at noon tomorrow.

A special delegation of members of the Long Beach club is scheduled to attend the meeting.

U. S. HONORARY JOURNALISM SOCIETY IS FORMED HERE

Installation ceremonies were held last night for eight Santa Ana Junior college students who were formally inducted as charter members into Beta Phi Gamma, national honorary co-educational journalism fraternity. The jaysee group was designated as Sigma chapter at the exercises held at Daniger's.

With representatives from several Southern California chapters present, the students formally were initiated along with their adviser, John H. McCoy and two honorary members. Mason Yould, editor of The Register and C. F. (Skinny) Skirvin, local columnist, were named honorary members.

Charter Presented

Mrs. Glenn B. Merryfield of San Bernardino, executive secretary of the organization, presented the charter to President Vic Rowland of the local chapter. Installation was conducted by an alumni group from San Bernardino. Short talks on the work of the fraternity were given by Jack Burtt, president of the Pasadena chapter and Mrs. Iola Rust of Redlands.

Those inducted were Rowland, Delpha Wollert, Ed Velarde, Oscar Lieffers, Bob Swanson, Gloria Kirchner, Bob Prescott and Jack Gardner. McCoy was made an honorary member of Beta Phi Gamma and also of Alpha Phi Gamma, fraternity for four year colleges.

Founder as Reward

The fraternity was founded at Santa Barbara Dec. 1, 1933, to reward those interested in journalism. Since then chapters have been established throughout the country as the lower division of Alpha Phi Gamma.

Director D. K. Hammond gave a short address of welcome. Mrs. Hammond was also in attendance at the dinner. Rodney Dye, jaysee student, played several numbers on his accordion.

S. A. Jesse James Is Victim Of Auto Thief

Jesse James was the temporary victim of an auto thief yesterday.

James, resident of Grand Central apartments, told police his car was parked on Second street between Sycamore and Broadway at 2:25 p. m. when a thief took it. The car was recovered at a different location at 2:50 p. m. R. D. Crenshaw, 2332 North Flower, yesterday reported to local police that his 1935 Oldsmobile coupe was stolen in Los Angeles from a parking lot at 11th street and Broadway last Friday or Saturday.

Dockweiler To Open S. A. Office

Congressman John F. Dockweiler, candidate for governor of California on the Democratic ticket, will open headquarters here, in the 600-block of North Main, next week, his campaign managers announced yesterday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Leland of Santa Ana will be in charge of the headquarters. Friday, this week, Congressman Dockweiler will return to California from Washington, D. C. On Saturday, at 8 p. m., the congressman will speak at the Young Democrats' convention in San Bernardino.

PROGRAM FOR TOWSENDITES

Members of Townsend Club No. 8 are sponsoring a special program by Santa Ana music students, which will be held at 7:30 p. m. today in Townsend Headquarters at 509 West Fourth street.

5 BOYS HELD IN SHOP BURGLARY

Another Santa Ana burglary was cleared up yesterday with the arrest of five Santa Ana boys ranging in age from nine to 15.

The youths assertedly confessed they crawled up a drain pipe at the side of the C. A. Rentschler Art Shell work shop, 930 East Fourth street, entered a second-story window which was unlocked, went to a lower floor and took $35 or $40 worth of ash trays and other materials, most of which were made out of sea sheels.

Tip Is Received

Among the loot, also, were a fishing pole, baby buggy, electric light lamp, claw hammer, lock, key and screw-driver. One youth said he sold some of the loot at a second-hand store for 25 cents. Officers W. E. B. Sherwood and F. L. Grouard arrested one youth at a local theater, the others at their homes.

The arrests were made on a tip from a local resident who read newspaper accounts of the burglary. The youths were nine, 10, 12, 13, and 15 years old, respectively. They were released to their parents and ordered to appear this afternoon at police headquarters when juvenile authorities will be called into the case.

COUPLE ARRESTED

Rex G. Medford, 40, 707 West Third street, and Mrs. Opal Gardella, 31, resident of a downtown hotel, were booked at county jail late yesterday on charges of contributing to the delinquency of Mrs. Gardella's two minor children.

Newly-Wedded Pair Live In Beverly Hills

For Mrs. James Robert Bell Goss (Helen Gale Harper) the merry month 'o May already has been filled with thrilling experiences, for she was wedded May 14 in Phoenix, Ariz., and within a few days time made her first solo flight and received her pilot's license.

News of the marriage was announced today by the bride's mother, Mrs. Dodley Page Harper, 1309 South Broadway. The ceremony took place in the presence of a little group of Beverly Hills friends of the couple. Miss Harper was attired in a gold wool suit with blue accessories.

The bride and bridegroom stopped in Santa Ana for a visit, and since have gone to Beverly Hills to make their home at 1139 1-2 South Doheny Drive. Mr. Goss, who studied at University of California, Berkeley, is an aviator. His bride, a graduate of Santa Ana High schools and Junior college, has been employed with Bachmann and Polimer's Theatrical Agency in Hollywood for the past year.

Norman Travis Mathews Arrives This Morning

Master Norman Travis Mathews made his arrival this morning at 7:15 o'clock at St. Joseph hospital, where he and his mother, Mrs. Harold Mathews are reported getting along very nicely.

Their father and husband, Harold Marthews, Broadway Theatre projectionist, is anticipating their return to the family home, 821 North Ross street early in June. Excited as anyone over the baby's arrival is his nongenarian great-grandfather, Nathaniel Travis, who makes his home with Mr. and Mrs. Mathews.

The new arrival bears the name of his great-grandfather as well as of his grandfather, Norman Mathews, 401 South Bristol street. Mr. and Mrs. Mathews are welcoming their first grandchild. The maternal grandmother is Mrs. Harry Southworth of this city.

Past Noble Grands

Torosa

Mrs. Frankie Johnson's home at Westminster was scene of a pleasant affair shared late last week by Torosa Past Noble Grands. Covered-dish luncheon was served by Mrs. Johnson and a large staff of co-workers.

Members spent much of the afternoon in the pretty gardens of the home, where the spring songs of the many birds were in harmony with the surroundings.

Roses and other flowers brightened the home for the event, shared by the hostess and Mesdames Jean Tremble, Mary Cooper, Martha McKee, Leona Talbott, Laura Kesemann, Eleanor Pickel, Laura Tramel, Mary Kuhl, Estelle Grey, Ethel Brown, Gladys McDonald, Bertie Launsbach, Mary Hilyard, Edna Kinsella, Lutie Lyman, Ada Spencer, Mary Ann Knox, Minnie Squier, Maude Lentz and a guest, Mrs. Mary Arnett of Westminster.

Mrs. Ada Spencer conducted a business meeting during which plans were made for a bazaar June 8. The next meeting will be held Thursday, June 16 in the home of Mrs. Cooper, with Mrs. Launsbach and Mrs. Tramel as co-hostesses.

The Harrisons Receive Fifty-Fifty Club Members for Barbecue

Tables set in the patio of the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wayne Harrison, 1808 Heliotrope Drive, were a delightful feature of an al fresco affair shared last night by Southern California Fifty Fifty club members.

Barbecued dinner was served at the prettily-arranged tables, which were appointed with green, white and yellow pottery. Yellow linens and bouquets of nasturtiums completed the colorful setting.

Men of the group made plans for a party at which they will entertain their wives early in the summer in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kraemer, Placentia. While the business meeting was in progress, feminine guests played cards. Winning prizes were Mesdames Elton McCoy, Everett Lutz and Stanley Norton.

Present were Dr. and Mrs. E. F. Bruning, Dr. and Mrs. Stanley Norton, Paul Beckman, Messrs. and Mesdames J. Wayne Harrison, Leroy Burns, Everett Lutz, James Tuma, Verlin Anderson, Estee Brown, Harl Crockett, Ralph Culp, Edward Farnsworth jr., Leland Finley, Heber Fowler, William Grafton, Ray Hiniker, Riley Huber, Sam Kraemer, Ewald Lemke, Lawrence Mitchell, Elton McCoy, Ralph Sampson and Hume West.

Tiny Lad's Birthday Is Celebrated

Tiny Larry Leon Kitto who was exactly one year old Sunday, had a happy observance of his first anniversary when his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Kitto, 1117 West Fairview street, held a chicken dinner at Irvine park.

With them were Mrs. Kitto's school friend since childhood days, Miss Edith Hateman, now of Riverside, and her fiance, William ("Bill") Fitpatrick. The young people enjoyed dancing in the pavilion in the afternoon, joining the De Molay group, in which Mr. Fitzpatrick holds high office in Riverside. In the evening they returned to the home of Mrs. Kitto's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Dixon, 1138 South Ross street, for the opening of Master Larry Leon's many gift packages. Mrs. Kitto was Miss Mabel Dixon.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. Kitto entertained Mr. and Mrs. Dixon and Mrs. Addie McCornock at an informal little birthday party for their small son, who had a birthday cake with one shining candle, and ice cream in honor of the event.

Quill Pen Club Holds Meeting in Home Of Mrs. Adams

Two stories, an article and a poem formed a varied program for Quill Pen club members and two guests last night when they assembled in the home of Mrs. Marah Adams, 415 South Birch street.

Miss Verna Wells gave the first contribution, a poem, "On Her Mettle." Mrs. Carleton Smith read an article, "Reunion", and the president, Mrs. J. U. Viau, an entertaining story, "Second Wind." Mrs. Frank Was was commended for the descriptive work in her story, "The Water Jug."

Mrs. Adams was assisted by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Ralph Adams in serving a tempting dessert course at the close of the evening.

Guests were Mrs. George H. Peterson and Mrs. A. D. Donovan of Orange. Members present were the hostess and Mesdames Harry M. Smith, J. U. Viau, Frank Was, Marshall Harnois, S. B. Marshall, Fred Conover, Carleton Smith, Maynard Thompson, Roy Winchester, William Fritcher and the Misses Lella Watson and Verna Wells.

The next meeting will be held Monday, June 13 in the home of Mrs. Fritcher, 1312 South Flower street.

V. F. W. Groups Attend District Meetings

Motoring last night to Corona, several members of Ernest Kellogg V. F. W. camp and auxiliary attended a third district meeting at which the Circle City organizations entertained.

Citations were awarded past commanders, department officers and liaison officers by Roy Wolf, third district council member, and Hugh Harrell, national liaison officer. Mrs. Esther Hendrickson of the Kellogg auxiliary, made the presentation of a past president's pin to Mrs. Board of the Corona auxiliary.

Santa Anans in attendance included Messrs. and Mesdames Harry Edwards, Glenn Hendrickson, George Hubbard and James Sullivan, with Mrs. Edwards' mother, Mrs. Crotty, Mrs. Ruth O'Mailia and Mrs. Beatrice Davis.

On Sunday the local organizations were represented at a district breakfast in Redlands, by Mr. and Mrs. Bert Clayton, Mr. and Mrs. Harold McCleary, John Lewis, Mesdames Beatrice Davis, Ann Sullivan and Esther Hendrickson. All remained for the meeting which followed an enjoyable breakfast event.

Church Societies

Philathea Meeting

Mrs. Ethel Stockton's home, 909 South Birch street, was scene of the monthly meeting of First Presbyterian Philathea class, whose members were entertained last week at an evening party.

Joining with Mrs. Stockton in hostess duties were Mesdames Evangeline Fenstad, Dorothy Griggs, Cecile Mahoney, Myrtle Merigold, Quessie Anderson, the Misses Lillie Osborne and Maren Leonard. They had planned an evening of needlework and chat, climaxed by a pleasant refreshment hour.

Enjoying their hospitality were Miss Doris Schenck, Miss Mildred Davis, Mesdames O. Scott McFarland, R. B. Waldron, Irene Tibbs, P. L. Galbreath, Edna Vorhis, Frank Bigelow, B. B. Stearns, John H. Turton, Mary Palmer, Louise Wilson, Ridley Smith, Howard Shugart, R. W. Heysel, Elsa Edwards, Hazel Dilley, Gail Hunter, Tressa Carothers, Cristine Rogers, Jean Vienig, Mary Snyder, Julia Knudsen and D. G. Tidball.

Pro Bono Dinner

Re-electing their present staff of officers, 30 members of United Presbyterian Pro Bono class met Friday night in the church for dinner. Board members are Mrs. C. F. Millen, president; Mrs. E. C. Lukens, vice-president; Mrs. S. H. Finley, secretary-treasurer; Benjamin Heemstra, teacher; O. S. Johnston, assistant teacher.

Mrs. J. B. Stewart, member of the class who returned to Santa Ana recently after several months in the east, was accorded honors. She received a corsage bouquet and a greeting card signed by all the members.

O. S. Johnston gave a short talk. Members of the committee in charge of the party were Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Eisele, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Heemstra and Mrs. S. H. Finley. They served dinner at tabels decorated with sweet peas and primroses.

Introduced as a guest was Mrs. Mayme C. Murphy of Marion, Ohio, who plans to leave late this month for her home after an extended visit with the T. Gray Johnstons, 1250 South Broadway.

Delta Alpha Party

Three members of Delta Alpha class of First M. E. church, the Misses Clara Paddock, Irma DeBarr and Minnie Wild, planned a pleasant party for the class late last week, when they entertained in the home of Miss Paddock, 813 Riverine avenue.

Garden flowers in a variety of colors and forms lent charm to the home as members joined in a business meeting under direction of their president, Miss DeBarr. Among reports read were notes of thanks from those to whom the class had sent Mother's Day flowers. Guessing games were introduced for the remainder of the evening which closed with the serving of refreshments.

Members present with the three hostesses were Mrs. Bertha Murphy, Miss Zoe Williams, Mrs. L. Moore, Mrs. Mary Bowen, Mrs. Jessie Craig and the Misses Tessie Winter, Elizabeth Sherman, Laura Sherman, Lilley Confer, Lena Confer, Keziah Hay, Olive Briney, Maud Thomas, Clara Barnes, Anna Canfield, Edna Knoll, Virginia Johnston and Cora Craig, with three guests, Mrs. Lena Marrs, Mrs. Lola Smith and Miss Mary Ryan.

Past Commanders' Dinner Given By Legion Mothers

One of the most anticipated events of the year among past commanders of American Legion Post No. 131 and past presidents of its auxiliary, is the noon-day dinner tendered them each spring by Legion Mothers' club. Yesterday brought the friendly gesture for the current year, and Veterans' hall was setting for a party of friendship and genial hospitality.

Mothers' club members had assembled in the forenoon hours, some of them to spend the morning at work on a quilt in the frames, others to co-operate with Mrs. Mabel Leach in preparation of the toothsome baked ham dinner. Roses dominated the flower arrangement of the tables, although there were additional blossoms, including delicately lovely primroses. Mrs. Cora L. Adams, Mrs. Nannie Lester and Mrs. Fannie Reeves were aided by Mrs. Ruth Stewart, daughter-in-law of the Mothers' club president, Mrs. Amy B. Stewart, in arranging the flowers.

Capable Committee

On the dinner committee were Mesdames Mabel Leach, Alma J. Kellogg, Elma McKay, Martha Elliott, Edith Getty and Nannie Lester, and again Mrs. Ruth Stewart lent assistance in serving.

Invocation was offered by Mrs. Kellogg, and dinner was followed by a round of impromptu talks. Mrs. Stewart expressed formal welcome to the guests, declaring that entertaining the younger members was spice of life to the Mothers' club, and that these occasional contacts with Legion and auxiliary, helped maintain the warm interest of the club members.

She then introduced past commanders present, beginning with Maurice Enderle, oldest in point of service, since his predecessors in office could not be present, including Dr. John Wehrly, first commnader of the post. After the short talk by Mr. Enderle, voicing appreciation of the annual courtesy of the hostess club, and the friendliness expressed to post and auxiliary, each succeeding past commander spoke briefly in similar happy vein. They were Franklin Grouard, Jules Markel, Charles Van Wyk, Franklin G. West, Otto Jacobs, Hunter Leach, Charles Swanner, C. M. Featherly, Bert Casteix and the present commander, Arthur Eklund. Past commanders unable to be present but who dropped in to exchange greetings or sent their regrets by some comrade, included M. Burr Wellington, Judge G. Kenneth Scovel, William Penn, E. T. McFadden and Dr. Wehrly.

Introduction of past auxiliary presidents began with "Mother" Fannie Reeves, who pointed out that all of the past commanders and all but three past presidents still live in Santa Ana. Talks continued to be gay, with many friendly gibes directed by commanders and presidents, at the undeniable march of time. Past President Florence Robertson summed it up cleverly by declaring that "Since life begins at 40, we are all re-born and starting in anew."

Past Presidents

Continuing the friendly talks were Past Presidents Louise Tubbs, Josephine Lykke, Nora McCalla, over from Long Beach especially for the event and accompanied by Past President Myrtle Lillard, also of the beach city; Marian Mathews, Margaret Hill, out for her first meeting in ten months' time and still dependent upon her crutch for walking; and Edna Eklund, who after pointing out her a family's distinction in providing head officers for both post and auxiliary, was reminded that their young daughter, Mary Alice had also commanded the Junior auxiliary.

Past Presidents Ruth Jellis and Tona Sandon brought the official list to a close, and regrets were voiced from Agnes Struble, absent because of Mr. Struble's illness, and Alma Hoover, now in Arizona. There were additional short talks from the invited guests, including Anne Leimer, present auxiliary president, and her husband, Charles Leimer, with Mrs. Ruth Stewart, Clay Minnix, Harold Rasmussen, J. C. Armstrong and Eleanor Young Elliott.

Legion mothers introduced included in addition to the president, Mrs. Amy Stewart, and the dinner and decorating committees, Mesdames Maude Wallace, Mary Van Wyk and her guest, Verna Ware of Orange; Iona S. Sharp, Lydia Robinson, Susie Lamb, Fannie Rose, Anna H. Gale and Cora L. Adams.

younger members of the camp presented an amusing school skit with Miss Kristine Nielsen as the "schoolmarm."

Refreshments were served to complete the hospitality to approximately 130 local and visiting Neighbors. Mrs. Laura Dunlap as chairman had on her committee, Mesdames Pearl Laub, Goldie Cornett and Mae Thomas, with further assistance lent by men of the camp including Messrs. Walter Dunlap, John Buckwalter, Wilson Yarbrough and others.

Royal Neighbors

Continuing the series of county-wide Royal Neighbors meetings which have added so much to the interest of lodge members during the past winter months, Magnolia camp last night welcomed Neighbors from Huntington Beach, Laguna Beach, Orange, Fullerton, Golden State camp of this city, together with Long Beach members and one guest from Phoenix, Ariz. This was Mrs. E. L. Wentworth, member of a Phoenix camp, who accompanied Mrs. T. A. Broderick.

Long Beach members included the district deputy, Mrs. Lenora B. Fletcher, who took over the meeting after a short business session conducted by Oracle Nettie Smith. Plans were made for the finale to the county-wide party series, on Wednesday night, June 22, when Golden State camp will entertain.

An interesting program followed, and its opening and closing numbers were beautiful bass solos by Jack Sampica, with Mrs. Sampica as his accompanist. He included in the numbers, two of Carrie Jacobs Bond's well-loved songs, "Jest Wearyin' For You" and "I Love You Truly," and added to the interest of both by relating some of his own contacts with the famous Southland composer. She had played his accompaniments on various occasions in the east when he had sung her songs.

Between the two solo groups,

Altrusa Club Announces Open Meeting

Because of the wide interest attached to the subject of their Thursday night program in the Y. W. clubrooms, Altrusa club members are issuing an invitation to all their friends to join them at 7:45 o'clock that evening, and hear Dr. D. A. Harwood as guest speaker on "Cause and Curability of Cancer."

Invitation has been issued by the hostess club to other service clubs of the city to attend the meeting, and those who have not been reached in this manner have been assured of a cordial welcome if they wish to be present. The Y. W. clubrooms are located at 105 East Fifth street.

Annual Events Planned By Girls' Ebell Society

Plans for two annual events were made by Girls' Ebell society members at their latest meeting in the home of Miss Cecilia Earel, 2102 North Main street, where Miss Barbara Flower was assisting hostess.

First social event on the calendar will be a dance at which the society will compliment high school seniors June 11 in Ebell clubhouse. The second affair will be a beach party which will climax events of the year for Girls' Ebell. Final plans will be made at the next regular meeting, Friday, June 3 in the home of Miss Irma June May, 730 South Birch street.

Miss Harriet Spicer, vice president, conducted the recent meeting, which followed the serving of refreshments. Pouring tea were the Misses Patsy Miller and Carol Brinkerhoff. Mrs. M. B. Wellington was present as advisor.

Birthday Occasions Merry Surprise Event

Mrs. O. T. Moore's birthday anniversary was given a merry observance late last week when a group of friends arrived at her home, 949 West Highland street for a surprise party. There was a gift of a bedspread for the honoree from the self-invited guests.

Prizes rewarded Mr. and Mrs. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Reed for their first and second high scores in bridge. Fruit salad was served.

Present with Mr. and Mrs. Moore were Messrs. and Mesdames Fred Wilson, Maurice White, George Rupert; Mrs. Mildred Morilla, Ernest Morilla, Miss Edith Morilla, Kenneth Nagle, Mrs. T. W. Andrews, all of this city; Mrs. George Zeigler and Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Reed, Orange; Mrs. Alice Ellington of Kansas City, Mo., who is visiting with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Moore.

Club Members Hold Final Event of Season

Holding their final meeting of the season, members of a bridge club were assembled recently at Danigers as guests of Mrs. Frank Brigante. Pansies brightened the luncheon table.

Mrs. Donald Hilyard and Mrs. Claude Sleeper held first and second high scores in bridge. Others playing were the hostess and Mesdames John Miller, Francis Edmunds, Elmer Sullivan, Joseph Harless, members; with a guest, Mrs. V. L. Motry.

You and Your Friends

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Ranney, 2331 North Park boulevard, have as house guests, their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Maltby and son Phillip, of Garden City, Kan., who are enjoying trips to various Southland points. They arrived last Thursday, and plan to leave for their home on Friday.

A. C. Brown, 1509 Dresser street and his daughter, Mrs. Opal Sitton of Costa Mesa are expected to return Saturday from Champaign, Ill., where they were called two weeks ago by the illness and death of Mr. Brown's mother, Mrs. Kate Brown.

Our National Attitude Towards Far East Discussed by Speaker

Although expressing the opinion that the United States, with assistance from England and France, could bring immediate end to the present Sino-Japanese conflict, Gordon S. Watkins, guest speaker yesterday for Ebell society, pointed out that it would be at the far too high price of millions of American lives and billions of American dollars. He believes that the United States should continue to observe strict neutrality in the conflict.

Dr. Watkins, dean of the College of Letters and Sciences at U. S. C., fully maintained the reputation which had preceded him, for being an understanding student of economic conditions, and a speaker fully able to present his ideas in interesting form. His introduction by Mrs. Roy V. Shafer followed a very short business meeting of the society, conducted by the president, Mrs. W. S. Thomson. After announcing two gifts of $50 each from Garden and Current Events sections, she called attention to the year's final meeting on June 13, with luncheon, installation of officers and musical program featuring Virginia Carr.

Immediately after his introduction, Dr. Watkins launched into a description of the beauty of Japan, especially in the autumn season, a beauty second only to that of Devonshire in his opinion. From that he went into an appreciation of the innate courtesy of the Japanese people, a national trait so at variance with their present attitude in China. He then traced the reason for the Japanese aggression in China, as one of necessary expansion, after other countries, including the United States, Brazil, Australia and Canada, had been closed to them. Manchuria, their first hope, offered no inducement to a race preferring warmer climes. So unable to attain room for national expansion, the Japanese then turned to building up a great industrial system, for while lacking all natural resources of raw materials, they had unlimited man power. Then when gates of commerce were closed against her by high tariffs, the country turned her attention again to expansion, deciding upon northern China as offering unlimited resources. This decision was made in spite of all that Japan, a nation with no native culture, owed to China, mother of all Japanese culture, declared the speaker, who contrasted the two Oriental races, the Chinese essentially pacifistic and the Japanese, aggressive and militaristic.

"What is our relationship to it all?" he queried, leaving the question unanswered beyond his statements that the United States had nothing to gain and everything to lose by entering the conflict, and closing with his hope that this country would continue to maintain its present neutrality.

Bible Section Formed By Woman's Club

Organization of Woman's club of Santa Ana Bible section took place yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. C. W. Clarke, 1322 North Garnsey street. Mrs. M. O. Wells was named leader; Mrs. W. H. Kuhn, secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Wells brought an article on the First Epistle of St. John, in the Sussex dialect, which proved of special interest to the group. Mrs. Clark served tea and cakes at the afternoon's close.

Regular meetings of the section will begin in the autumn, it was announced.

HONEYMOONERS' RETURN

Since tomorrow will bring the end of the leave granted Ensign John Sherman Barleon from his duties with the fleet, friends are anticipating the return today of Ensign Barleon and his bride, the former Miss Prudence Roberts, from their honeymoon trip by air to Mexico City.

The young couple departed after their garden wedding of Saturday May 14, at San Joaquin Rancho, the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. James Irvine. They will return to a charming home awaiting them at Coronado, a home completely outfitted for them as Mrs. Irvine's wedding gift to her niece. Ensign Barleon has been advanced to naval duty aboard the U.S.S. Phelps, flagship of the destroyers of the naval fleet.

IN HUGHES HOME

Flowers of all kinds adorned the home of Mrs. William R. Hughes, 724 Eastwood street, Friday afternoon for a bridge club party at which she was hostess. Mrs. J. W. Alexander and Mrs. Charles A. Schleif won prizes for their high and low scores.

Mrs. Hughes served refreshments to the group, who included the two prize winners and Mesdames Henry McComb, A. G. Lavery, John Miller, A. A. Schlasman and a guest, Mrs. Elbert Drake of Pasadena, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Schleif.

Details Are Revealed Of Quiet Wedding In Arizona

Although the marriage of Miss Elaine Vincent and Everett Spessard of this city, was an event of May 7 in Yuma, Ariz., the young people have been honeymooning in the mountains near San Diego and so their many friends have known few details of the service. Judge Henry Kelly of the Arizona Gretna Green, read the wedding rites for the happy couple.

Mr. Spessard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Spessard of this city. Since completion of his high school course he has been with the South Coast Boatbuilding company of Newport Beach. His bride came to Santa Ana from Newberg, Ore. where she attended the city schools, later completing her studies at Sacred Heart Academy of Portland. She has been secretary in the offices of the Southwestern Amusement company of this city.

On the night preceding the departure of Miss Vincent and Mr. Spessard for Yuma and their wedding rites, they were complimented at a dinner party which Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Conradi gave in their Bolsa home. Mr. Conradi is the head of the company with which the bride has been employed.

Mrs. Conradi gave a charming bridal touch to the table by posing a doll bride and bridegroom amidst clusters of pale pink sweet peas, beneath a wedding bell fashioned of the blossoms. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Breier of Los Angeles completed the little group with the hosts and the complimented young people.

Mr. and Mrs. Spessard will be at home to their friends at 137 Broadway, Costa Mesa.

Chapter Represented At Convention

Installation of Mrs. Sherwood P. Harriss of Orange as third vice-president of California division, United Daughters of the Confederacy came as a highlight of the recent convention in San Marino for members of Emma Sansom chapter U. D. C. of this city.

Mrs. Harriss' work will be along educational lines, and she will have charge of the scholarship fund. When she took office, she was attired in a lace gown, with which she carried a Colonial bouquet provided by Emma Sansom chapter. The local organization also presented corsage bouquets to the chapter delegates, who included Miss Gertrude Montgomery, Mrs. Lillian Pritchett, Mrs. Walter Gist and Miss Percie Head.

Miss Montgomery was registrar for the three-day conclave, which took place in Huntington hotel. Tours of the Huntington library and gardens, and of the University of Southern California, were features of the convention.

Carpenters Auxiliary Entertains Husbands

Carpenters' Auxiliary members entertained their husbands recently when an evening party was given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boland, 1108 Kilson Drive. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Crabtree were co-hosts.

Prizes in pinochle went to Mrs. Jerome Schroth and O. E. Benner for their high scores, while Mrs. William Titchenal and Harlow Billingsley were consoled.

Strawberry shortcake and coffee were served to the group, who included the two host couples and Messrs. and Mesdames Jerome Schroth, William Titchenal, P. E. Lonon, George Rupert, O. E. Benner, Emmett Lambert, Harlow Billingsley, Jacob Bergsetter and John Buckwalter.

Auxiliary members will meet Friday at noon for covered-dish luncheon in the home of Mrs. Ollie Minor, 1502 West First street.

Past Presidents Spend Weekend in Taft

Spending the weekend as guests in the home of a former Santa Anan, Mrs. William Altmiller of Taft, members of Y. L. I. Past Presidents club held a quarterly meeting.

In the party were Mesdames Harry Edwards, U. J. Engelman, Robert Sandon, William Maag and Miss Nellie Colombini of this city; and Mrs. Charles Maag and a guest, Mrs. Nick Brock of Orange.

Mrs. Altmiller took the group out to dinner Saturday evening. Sunday dinner in her home was a feature of the affair. Plans were made to hold the net meeting in July with Mrs. Charles Maag.

Jaysee Spinsters Give Surprise Shower for Bride-elect

Soon to desert the ranks of Junior College Sisterhood of Spinsters as she plans for her coming marriage to Harding Edkins, Miss Marian Baxter last night discovered that her sister Spinsters were making her honor guest at their meeting with Miss Elaine McReynolds on East Fruit street.

Presentation of shower gifts after a short business meeting, completel surprised the popular honoree, who had the pleasure of claiming red and white kitchen utensils heaped in a big clothes-basket. A second surprise came when she was presented with an electric egg beater, the gift of the club as a whole.

Election of officers was chief consideration at the business meeting, Miss Peggy Paxton being chosen as new president. Other officers include the Misses Norma Daly, vice president; Joyce Wentworth, secretary; Margie Lee Brown, treasurer; and Phyllis Kogler, pledge-mistress. Outgoing cabinet members are the Misses Catherine Eklund, Virginia Sheppard, Carolyn Davis, Marjorie Kenyon, and Audrey Sattler. Large plates of candy were served by Miss McReynolds.

Present were the Misses Margie Lee Brown, Marion Doty, Catherine Eklund, LaVonne Frandson, Mary Henderson, Marjorie Kenyon, Jane King, Gloria Kirchner, Barbara Knuth, Phyllis Kogler, Irene Krisher, Jeanne McDonald, Maryann Newcomer, Peggy Paxton, Audrey Sattler, Virginia Scott, Anne Wetherell, Delpha Wollert, Norma Daly, Ruth Liggett, Maxine Wells, and Joyce Wentworth, and Mrs. Grace Knipe, adviser.

Reservations Are Due Tomorrow for Dance

Tickets still are available for Junior Ebell society's dinner dance Friday evening at 8 o'clock at Los Serranos Country club, it was announced today by the general chairman, Mrs. Carleton Smith.

Since all reservations must be in by tomorrow, those who have not obtained their tickets are urged to do so promptly. Mrs. Clyde Higgins, ticket committee chairman, has a group of assistants including Miss Ruth Fitz and Mesdames Leroy Burns, Alvin Stauffer, Paul Hales, George Preble, Paul Howe, Daniel Jones, Thomas Rhone and William Gray. Reservations may be made with any of this group, or with Mrs. Smith.

Since Santa Ana Canyon road is closed, members are advised to take the route through Brea and Carbon canyons to reach Los Serranos Country club, which is near Chino.

Two Anniversaries Observed at Dinner

To celebrate May birthday anniversaries of C. E. Jackson and his one-year-old granddaughter, little Dianne Lynnette Foster, a family dinner party was given Sunday in the home of the little maid's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Foster, 1408 Cypress avenue.

There were gifts for the two celebrants, who shared places of honor at a prettily arranged table. A single candle gleamed on the small cake which was placed before Dianne Lynnette, while a larger cake was presented to Mr. Jackson. Roses and sweet peas added to the party setting.

Present with the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Foster and their little daughter were the grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Umberham.

Good Advice About Constipation!

A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with any ailment is to get at its cause. If you're constipated, don't fiddle with makeshift remedies. Find out what's giving you the trouble!

Chances are you won't have to look very far, if you eat just the things most people do. Most likely, you don't get enough "bulk"! And "bulk" doesn't mean just a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is what you lack, your ticket is crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains the "bulk" you need plus the intestinal tonic, vitamin B$_1$.

Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and join the "regulars"! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Newly Married Couple To Establish Home Down on Mesa

Charming in its simplicity was the wedding Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in Santa Ana Wedding chapel, of Miss Grace E. Sherman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Sherman, 209 South Broadway, and Eugene O. Camomile of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Camomile of Hueneme, Calif.

The Rev. Earl C. Bloss read the service for which only members of the immediate family were assembled. The bride was beautifully gowned in white silk net over taffeta, worn with a brief veil falling to her shoulders from a cleverly twisted little turban of the net. Her flowers were bride roses tied with wide ribbons.

Mrs. Otto P. Dixon, sister of the bride, served as her matron of honor, and wore a satin gown in deep rose hues with her corsage of rosebuds in yet deeper tones. Mr. Dixon served Mr. Camomile as best man.

Following the service, the new Mr. and Mrs. Camomile were complimented at a little party in the Sherman home, where flowers were wreathed in bright colors to provide a colorful scene. Miss Beulah Cady of the home, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman, had baked the big wedding cake, which was three-tiered in the form of a cross, and was beautifully decorated. The bride cut the first slice, and the cake was served with coffee and ice cream.

Mr. Camomile's mother, Mrs. F. W. Camomile, was down from Hueneme for the wedding, and was accompanied by her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Tuckett of Inglewood, with whom she will visit a few days. Other guests included with the bride's parents, her brother, Vernon Sherman, her sister, Mrs. William Sundstrom, the former Priscilla Sherman, and Miss Cady.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Camomile will live in Costa Mesa where their home at Harbor boulevard and Victoria street, is in readiness for them. Mr. Camomile is with one of the packing houses. His bride has made many friends in this city since the family's arrival a very few years ago from Massachusetts. She had her high school training in Massachusetts.

Young Couple Wedded At Quiet Service

Quiet rites Saturday evening in Santa Ana Wedding chapel, united in marriage, Miss Bonita I. Hull of Anaheim, and Alfred N. Jackson III of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred N. Jackson jr., 609 1-2 South Ross street.

The services were read by the Rev. Earl C. Bloss, resident pastor at the chapel. The bride was gowned in peach taffeta with touches of blue and wore gardenias. There were no attendants. The new Mr. and Mrs. Jackson will live at 2454 North Park boulevard.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Birthday anniversaries of Mrs. Harvey C. Maxwell, Mrs. A. H. Stovall and Mrs. Harry Wilson were given recognition at the latest meeting of a bridge club, with Mrs. Maxwell as hostess in her home, 1822 North Broadway.

Ice cream, birthday cake and coffee formed the dessert course served in advance of bridge play. Holding the two highest scores were the hostess and Mrs. J. A. Stebbins. Completing the group were Mrs. J. B. Price and guests including Mesdames F. A. Wood, George Burns and John Swanke.

Ray Lambert Home is Scene of Informal Dinner Party

Dinner in the attractive Irvine ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lambert was shared Saturday night by a little group of guests received at an informal affair. Aiding the hosts were their daughters, the Misses Barbara and Lucille Lambert.

Cactus blossoms in red and cream were arranged by Miss Barbara Lambert as an effective centerpiece for the table, spread with a yellow cloth and lighted with yellow tapers in candlesticks to match the gold encrusted mirror.

A prelude to other events of the evening was a stroll through the garden with its many colorful flowers and attractive old sycamore tree. Mrs. Lambert served refreshing fruit punch just before 7 o'clock dinner.

In the group with the hosts were Mr. and Mrs. James Utt, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Ogle and Mr. and Mrs. Leland Finley.

Mrs. Lambert entertained as recent luncheon guests, Mrs. Charles Dana and her daughter and granddaughters, Mrs. Charles Swanner, Patricia and Carol Lee Swanner. The event complimented Mrs. Dana, who will leave soon for the east.

The Sackersons Are Hosts at Supper

Four young couples who get together each month for supper and bridge took part in a merry event recently when Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sackerson were hosts in their home at Newport Beach.

Completing the party were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heffner and Dr. and Mrs. Perry Davis of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Harman of Anaheim. Mrs. Sackerson and Dr. Davis held the two high scores in cards.

The hostess used roses in decorating for buffet supper which preceded card play.

DESSERT BRIDGE

Strawberry shortcake formed the inviting dessert course served to bridge club members recently when Mrs. Worth Alexander was hostess in her home on Newport road. May baskets filled with flowers centered each table.

Mrs. Raymond Couch and Mrs. John Turton held the two highest scores in bridge. Others present were Mrs. Jesse Wright, who assisted the hostess; and Mesdames Ralph Mitchell, Earl Lepper, George Lippincott and John Cozad, with Mr. Alexander.

Husbands will be guests of members at the June meeting.

MISTAKEN PUNISHMENT

Caroline's report shocked her parents. C was the highest mark she had, and C is unsatisfactory. That is, C was the highest mark for scholastic subjects, in "extramural activity" she got A; in physical education she got B plus.

"What's this extramural business?" asked father, in a high rage.

"I'm receptionist in the Head's office. I meet visitors and I help them find what they want, or the people they want; and I answer the telephone. All that kind of thing."

"No wonder you get C's in arithmetic and grammar and the rest. Wasting your time doing errands. Let the Head do his own work. You attend to yours.

"I do. That's forty minutes of extra time put in. I don't have to. I like to do it."

"Yes. You like to do what's none of your business. Put that time on your lessons and maybe you'll get them done. You can get high marks in sports, too. Well, from now on you do no more office work, and you go to no more games. You stay home and study during those hours and see if you can't get somewhere where you belong. I don't see what they were thinking about to let you go on this way, wasting your time There'll be no more of it. I can tell you."

Father meant well, but there were some things he did not know, and those were important matters that affected his daughter's school success. She was not a bookish girl. Lessons were hard for her. It was not that she neglected her work, but that she could get no better in that work than C. But she was making good in other directions where her powers lay. She was a pleasing presence. She could welcome people; she could make them feel at ease, she could attend to the details of their business in the school, and so help a great deal. All the experiences she met with in this work stimulated her intelligence and could be counted on to strengthen her work in every way.

The games and the sports she did so well in had a good effect on her mind and body. They, too, would reflect strength on her scholastic work because they imdo home arithmetic. The better gence. It is a mistake to make the pupil, who fails in arithmetic, do omre arithmetic. The better scheme is to find work that he can do well and let him do it in the hope that such experiences will strengthen him for other work.

When a child fails in scholastic work don't take away the work he succeeds in, even though it is not found in the book. Success in any one field is worthwhile. It is worthy of respect. To take away the child's one chance of success is to leave him hopeless and helpless. It is to take away what strength he has.

The live teacher looks for some work—no matter in what field it lies—that the failing child can succeed in, and helps him forward it in every possible way. Success is a moral and mental stimulus. It reflects power on the intelligence. Welcome it and don't take any part of it from any child. Use it.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

JACKIE DUNN—heroine; she wanted to fly.

ROGER BRECKNER—hero; he wanted to test the stratosphere.

BERYL MELROSE—wealthy widow; she wanted Roger.

EVELYN LA FARGE—Jackie's mother; she wanted a son-in-law.

Yesterday: Heartbroken, Jackie decides to leave, tells Beryl. But she is to have a chance to prove her love for Roger sooner than she had ever hoped.

CHAPTER XX

"ROGER, I have something to tell you," Jackie said that next morning when she arrived at the hospital. Roger looked so bright and cheerful today, so much more like himself. His head was no longer swathed in bandages; he wore his gamin-grin, his blue eyes had lighted up as she came into his room. "I decided—yesterday—that I had better go home today."

"That's why you didn't come to see me then?" Roger asked. If her sudden announcement was a surprise—or disappointment—he did not give any sign of either. He smiled at her now, so that his eyes crinkled at their corners in the old way; he motioned toward a chair. "Aren't you going to sit down?" he asked, as though he would tease her a little. "Aren't you going to take off your hat so I may see your pretty hair? You aren't going to run away this minute, are you, Jackie?"

"No," she answered, though in her heart she wished that that were possible. If only she could have run away without having to say goodby. A goodby that was the most difficult one she had ever had to say. That might be forever. But even that was not the something she had to tell him. That was going to be the hardest of all. This thing that she had decided she must do.

SHE sat down obediently, taking off her hat, as he had asked her to. The sunlight streaming through the window blazed across her hair, making a golden halo of her flushed, young race. The same warm sunshine that only yesterday had caressed the bent dark head of Beryl, kneeling at Roger's side.

"I'm sorry you have to go," Roger said now; the same phrase that Beryl had used when Jackie had told her she was going home. Then, amazingly, he added almost the same words, too. "But maybe, after all, it is best, my love."

Jackie's heart gave a little twinge at the old familiar, mocking words. How often she had told Roger in reply that she was not his love—and now she never could be. Now it was indeed a mockery.

"That wasn't what I wanted to tell you," Jackie said. She must get this over as quickly, as painlessly as possible.

"What is it?" Roger asked. "You may tell me anything. I guess I can take it—now." He still wore his gay grin, but his blue eyes were serious.

"Just—that you are free," she answered, hurrying on quickly. "Free—of our ridiculous trial engagement, I mean. It really isn't necessary to go on with it any longer, Roger. I can explain things to Mother. She and I understand each other better now. And she is going to marry Mr. Scott, anyway."

"And you still feel that you don't want to marry anyone—at least not until you're old and bored and feeble?"

"Maybe not even then." Jackie forced another little laugh. So Roger was not even going to protest, or try to hold her to his idea. He wanted to be free, then. There could be no doubt of that. Jackie had tried to tell herself that she must expect this, but it was not any easier to accept for all that.

"I see," Roger said. He turned his head away a moment, as though the sunlight were too strong for his eyes. But when he looked at her again his eyes were smiling. "That's all right, Jackie; I understand. It didn't turn out so hot, did it—my swell idea? Though there was a little while—just before I went away—after that night in the garden—remember?—when I thought . . . But I guess you were still only putting on our act." He changed his tone abruptly, as though he realized there was no use in remembering.

But Jackie remembered. As though she ever could forget! And because remembrance was so sweet, and yet so sad, she said, "Of course it was an act! You see I had an idea, too, Roger. I thought I'd see if I couldn't even put it over on you—our engagement, I mean. I thought I'd turn the laugh on you, since I knew you'd been laughing at me. I was angry—and silly—and I . . . well, I guess I didn't know what I was doing." Oh, she was telling him this very badly; she must make him believe her, make him believe that she had never meant anything at all—no, not even that night in the garden, not even that short while before he went away, when she had accepted his pin. . . .

THAT was it—she must return his pin. Tell him she had only accepted it in pretense, make-believe, too. "Here, Roger," she fumbled with the clasp; her fingers were trembling so that they were all thumbs. "I want you to take this back, too. Of course it was only part of the joke. A sorry part. Maybe if you'd worn it, instead of giving it to me, it would have brought you better luck." She had it off now, she held it out to him.

He reached his hand out to take it, then drew it back; shook his head. "No, Jackie. I gave it to you . . . well, because I really wanted you to have it. I still want you to have it. Just as something to remember me by. Or at least, to remember your first trial engagement—and what a sorry end it came to . . ."

"But it didn't! I mean . . . it was awfully decent of you Roger to try to help me out. It isn't your fault it didn't work out. It isn't anybody's. It wasn't supposed to, you know. It was supposed to end this way."

"I guess it was," he said. "It was fun while it lasted, wasn't it, Jackie?" His tone was very gay again.

"Yes," Jackie said. "It was fun while it lasted." And it was all over now. Just like that. With a few words. But this was not fun. She could not keep this up much longer. Her heart was a dead heavy load now, her throat dry and choked. Oh, she must get the rest of it over very, very quickly—very, very gayly, indeed.

She got up from her chair, pulled the Dobbs hat firmly down over the golden halo of her hair, stepped back from Roger's bed. For a moment, only a moment, she might have buried her face and given way to the rising tumult of emotion that threatened to sweep all resolution, all reason itself away.

"I must go, Roger," she said. She spoke jerkily. "I must go right away. Or I'll miss my train. I want to say once more—thank you, oh! so much—for everything—and . . . and goodby, Roger." That was the hardest word of all, the most difficult to say.

Having said it, Jackie turned and almost ran from the room. She did run down the long gloomy narrow hall, as though she could not escape quickly enough, as though she were afraid if she did not keep on running she would turn back to Roger, tell him the truth—that this was the end of everything for her.

COLLEGES LOSE TAX APPEAL ON TICKETS

WASHINGTON, D. C. (UP)—The supreme court ruled today that from a legal standpoint intercollegiate football—even as practiced by state universities—is a commercial activity.

The tribunal held that Georgia Tech and the University of Georgia must pay the usual 10 per cent federal amusement tax on admission fees to their athletic contests and set aside a fifth circuit court of appeals injunction prohibiting collecting of the tax.

The case involved efforts of the regents of the university system of Georgia to prevent collections of the 10 per cent levy on the grounds that intercollegiate athletics were an essential feature of higher education and therefore of state government.

The government's primary contention was that the tax is levied on the purchasers of tickets, rather than on the university, and that the university acted merely as collection agent. It emphasized that the 10 per cent levy was in addition to the regular admission prize, and that all tickets of admission specifically stated that the tax was extra.

But the government also argued that even if its main contention was rejected, the tax still was valid since intercollegiate football is "a gigantic commercial activity" rather than "an essential governmental function."

It contended that even if solons of the university system considered it essential to play intercollegiate football, it still was not "essential" to have paying spectators at the games.

FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, May 24.—(UP)—New uncertainties in the Czechoslovakian situation unsettled the stock market today after early firmness, but trading did not pick up.

Most foreign bonds declined while U. S. governments advanced. Wheat lost 1¼ to 2 cents a bushel. Cotton futures eased a few points.

Steel shares, steady early, sank to losses of more than a point. Coppers followed with smaller declines. Chemicals eased. Rails and utilities sagged.

Experts blamed the decline entirely on the Czechoslovakian situation. There was no heavy pressure, but buying tended to dry up except at concessions. The fact that volume continued light was seen as negatively favorable.

Chicago Board of Trade

CHICAGO, May 4.—(UP)—Weakness in outside markets, lack of foreign demand, and favorable crop weather in the United States forced wheat prices to new seasonal lows today on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the close wheat was off 1⅜ to 2, May 76, corn was of ⅝ to ¾, May 56⅝, and oats were off ⅛ to ⅜, May 28⅜.

Miror rallies checked the decline but sustained buying support was lacking.

Wheat steadied after the opening, but weakness at Kansas City led to renewed pressure. There was a demand on resting orders and new buying a t74 cents for July wheat.

Corn prices eased on mild liquidation through commission houses as well as some hedge selling. The bearish sentiment in wheat was an important factor.

LOVE WILL FIND A WAY

The town of Disney, Okla., shortly is going to have government by trial and error. Little more than a clearing in the woods just now, it soon will be the home of the construction workers on the giant Grand River dam, and the powers that be want to find just what to do about them.

The powers that be apparently are two women of unofficial status, and a one-man police force. Disney is not yet incorporated. One woman insists on an early curfew and a set of effective blue laws, and the other wants the place "wide open" . . . a thoroughgoing old-fashioned boom town. For 30 days Disney will be wide open, and for 30 days it will be shut tight. Whatever plan seems to work out best will be adopted.

The blue law enthusiast says the workers will need all the sleep they can get, and the boom-town boomer says what they'll need is recreation. The one-man police force says: "This is the craziest thing I ever heard of."

It isn't crazy, it's just something that probably won't make any difference at all. Blue laws or no blue laws, the men are going to have their fun when they feel like it, and sleep when they feel like it. At least, that's what they do in all the other communities in the world. Love (of life) always finds a way.

CONGRATULATIONS TO MEMPHIS

Memphis, Tennessee, deserves the nation's congratulations. It has been declared winner in the National Safety Council's Sixth Annual Traffic Safety Contest. Six other cities also won prizes in their population groups: Hartford, Conn.; Beaumont, Texas; Everett, Wash.; and Des Plaines, Ill. The grand prize for states went to Massachusetts.

Memphis won the major prize for cities by carrying out a comprehensive, continuous safety program. There was outstanding activity in the field of traffic enforcement and the Commissioner of Public Safety offers $100 to anyone who can prove that a traffic ticket was "fixed." Many street improvements were made, in order to correct danger points. Many miles of pavement were clearly marked, in order to keep vehicles in their proper lanes. A city law requires each motor vehicle in Memphis to be inspected three times a year.

Equally important, the city pursues steady, effective educational work, to acquaint local residents with traffic dangers and how to eliminate them. The result of all this was a substantial reduction in the city's accident, death and injury rates.

What Memphis and the other winning cities did, any community can do. In smaller towns the safety program naturally will be less complicated and expensive, but similar results can be achieved. Sad experience has proved that sporadic safety drives, no matter how enthusiastic or sincere their sponsors, are next to worthless—continuity of effort is absolutely vital. Public education, plus the correction of accident-prone locations, plus rigorous, non-fixable law enforcement, are the great essentials of any accident reduction campaign that gets results.

NEWSPAPER OFFICE YIELDS ROMANCE

A great deal of nonsense has been printed at one time or another about the romance of newspaper work. From the time of Richard Harding Davis down to the era of "The Front Page," the newspaperman has been held up as a chap who moves through an aura of romance, a slightly smudged and soiled aura, occasionally, but romance nonetheless.

At least 90 per cent of this is pure hokum. Yet there is a romance in the business, as there is in all trades and callings; but there is nothing spectacular about it, and it is only rarely that the man in the street is able to get a look at it.

One of these rare occasions took place not long ago when the Pulitzer prizes for the past year were awarded.

The gold medal for disinterested and meritorious public service was awarded to the Bismarck Tribune, in North Dakota. And because the thing which that newspaper did to win the award is a striking example of the real romance of newspaper work, the tale is worth retelling here.

Back in 1933 the farming region of western North Dakota was in a bad way. Drought and economic depression had reduced whole areas to desperation.

It was here that the Bismarck Tribune got busy. The late George D. Mann, publisher of the newspaper launched a long, unspectacular and laborious campaign. First, the newspaper stressed the value of irrigation. It agitated, campaigned and educated, and, after three years, brought about the construction of some 200 irrigation projects which helped turn sun-baked fields into green and fertile producers again.

But that was only part of it.

There was a campaign to restore submarginal lands to the range: a drive for the construction of small dams to conserve water; a shelter-belt program; a course of education in scientific farming practices and many smaller matters.

There are no picturesque reporters in this story, no hard-boiled editors, no dauntless seekers after scoops. It is simply the story of a long, thankless campaign to make a region a better place to live in. As such it is worth a dozen of the old blood-and-thunder, get-the-news-at-all-costs yarns.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

World Copyright 1938
By King Features Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON, May 24. — Messrs. Farley and Roosevelt may, as they say, stand just like the two pillars in the Roman numeral II, but the pillars seem to be still leaning slightly in opposite directions occasionally.

Consider the Oregon primary for instance. Farley was for Gov. Martin who lost. He made no announcements to that effect, but every Democratic political authority in Oregon was permitted to know it. Mr. Roosevelt was neutral, except that he announced he could not remember having said something favorable about Martin a few years ago. However, Interior Secretary Ickes and Senator Norris openly worked the sunny side of the street with public announcements for Martin's successful opponent.

The official chatter here is that this strange set-up merely represented a new method of not interfering in state primaries. That is, they are supposed to have adopted the can't-lose system of working both sides of the street just this once. Offically they are to continue the old non-interference policy which will permit endorsement of Barkley in Kentucky, McAdoo in California, opposition to George in Georgia, Smith in South Carolina, etc., etc.

That may be, but the inside on how Farley happened to be for Martin sounds like a slightly different story.

In 1932, when things looked none too good for Roosevelt in Oregon, Martin is the man whom Farley picked and saddled with the responsibility of going out to put things in order. Around headquarters here, many believe it was Martin who carried the state for Roosevelt.

So when Martin needed help this time, the Farley fellows felt they had to do what they could. Incidentally they did not share the joint AFL-CIO opinion that Martin was viciously anti-labor. As they saw it he was an honest governor who chased out some labor racketeers, and talked too much about it in the tone of an exarmy officer.

Also they consider it just as well that Farley supported Martin because the administration is going to need Martin votes to win in November. But just where this leaves the two pillars personally is a matter of some discussion.

Those pictures of the bombings which Mussolini displayed for Hitler would not have looked so impressive alongside some new domestic scenes now secreted in war department files. The army air corps, just a few days ago, staged a very secret bombing of ships, planes and trucks on a little island near Langley field, Virginia, which made Mussolini's show look little. However, G-2 (Army Intelligence) refused to sanction any publicity whatever for the air corps. Some army authorities believe the cause of peace might better be served in the future by opening up the nontechnical aspects of such demonstrations to publicity, not only to show taxpayers of democracies what kind of protection they are getting for their money but to offset the world threat propaganda of the dictators.

A move is afoot to have Mr. Roosevelt take an inside hand in Congress to restore southern differentials in the wage-hour bill. The president is represented authoritatively as taking the position that any wage and hour bill must have differentials before it becomes law. There has been some talk that he might send a letter to congressional conferees in the last stages of consideration as he did on the tax plan. This open course may be avoided, but he still has a telephone in his office.

It was friendship again that drew General Farley's neck out into the Pennsylvania situation. The inside story of how that happened is this:

Farley did not want to make a statement. Senator Joe Guffey came to him, told him the margin of victory or defeat was so close something had to be done on the eve of the primary. Jim tried to tell Joe "no," but Joe declined that answer; brought up all he had done in the past for the administration—how he made it possible to elect Sam Rayburn as majority leader in the house, how much administration water he had carried in the conventions, etc.

Farley knew the situation was true, decided to abandon his promise against public interference in primaries, made a statement for Kennedy and Earle.

Incidentally, Farley's investigators had just returned from Pennsylvania bearing the private tidings that Kennedy and Earle would win. As far as is known this is the first time Farley's scouts have been half-wrong in picking winners.

Those two un-named ex-senators, accused by Rep. McFarlane of taking money from a radio combine while in office, apparently know whom he is talking about. One of them wired him thanking him for not making public the names. McFarlane will not identify the former senators, but if he gets a hearing before the rules committee, the committee may.

Thomas Corcoran, the lost liaison man of the White House, is doing missionary work quietly in the house to revive Mr. Roosevelt's reorganization bill. So is Ben Cohen. They are being very secretive about it. Cohen has visited his liberal friends. Corcoran favors the telephone rather than personal appearances.

That Nightmare Is Here Again

Clearing House

Fellow Citizens: Speakers for the California Pension Plan are intimating that their plan has divine approval and is fundamentally sound. This is, I fear, very misleading.

It is hard to conceive of the Lord, with His own prosperity plan wherein He said, "Bring ye all the tithe, etc.", placing His divine stamp of approval on a man made prosperity plan that was "just as good."

It is also hard to conceive of the Lord giving His blessing to an amendment which invites the pensioners to repudiate their just debts, as provided in section 35, when He told a seeker after light to "defraud not". Is the "honorable retirement" to be via the debt repudiation route?

Their claim to the plan's being "fundamentally sound" is equally erroneous. Let us suppose for a moment the plan were in full operation.

The first week the 600,000 pensioners would receive $18,000,000 in warrants. The following Thursday there should be in the hands of the administrator $360,000 for warrant redemption stamps. The next Thursday following he would have $720,000 more, and the Thursday after that $1,080,000 more. This keeps rolling up till at the end of fifty-two weeks, and before a single warrant is redeemed, the administrator has taken $486,720,000 out of circulation, or a little over $81 from every man, woman and child in California. This amount in the hands of the Pension Administrator gives him a strangle hold on every bank in the state. No business in the state would dare incur the wrath of this money czar, by refusing to accept the warrants, even though to do so might jeopardize his investment.

No relief could be had, from any of the administrator's possible abuses of business, through the state courts. Section 38 takes care of that very nicely. Read that and you'll begin to understand why I called the plan a dictatorship and not a pension plan.

In a previous article, I charged that only a small part of the membership of the California Pension Plan had read the amendment. My statement was promptly challenged by one of their speakers.

Since then I heard them broadcast a statement of financial condition for the month of April. Among other things the broadcast stated they had 50,000 members and had sold 50,000 copies of the amendment. I have personally bought seven of those copies and none of them went into the hands of members .Also a careful canvas among dozens of members and friends of the plan showed me only one who had read the amendment. Yet all those members will vote blindly for the amendment if it gets on the ballot. Ironically enough, Section 33 states that the administrator shall use $200,000 to tell the public all about the plan after it passes, so maybe the people don't need to understand the amendment before they vote on it. This sum puts $150,000 in to window cards, bill boards, folders, booklets and newspaper advertising and the other $50,000 pays for a series of fireside radio chatters by the administrator to his loving subjects.

Why not get a copy of the amendment now and inform yourself, rather than pay the administrator $200,000 to inform you after it passes?

Yes why not?

Fellow Citizens:

If the Townsend Plan were like Ben Mullin so completely distorts it to appear in the May 11 Clearing House, then Dr. Townsend is not smart enough to handle a pick and shovel job and would have been confined all his life in a hospital for weak minded people and never heard of. But the fact that Dr. Townsend has the honor, respect, admiration and love of millions of the finest people in America is proof of the utter lack of any value in Mr. Mullin's wholly inaccurate outline of the Townsend Plan, without the slightest resemblance to it in any way whatsoever. Make a thorough study of the Townsend Plan, Mr. Mullin, then you will be able to write a fine article in its favor and become an ardent advocate. Lest there might possibly be anyone who could be misled by Mr. Mullin's article, the following is submitted:

Mr. Mullin says the government "gives at least 8,000,000 persons" the money to spend, but he does not seem to see where this money comes from. Instead of Mr. Mullin giving all the money to be spent in his store, he will pay only 2 cents on each dollar's worth of goods he sells. Surely he would not object to that. His Townsend customers' money will come from 2 cents tax on every dollar's worth of business done in the entire nation and not out of his own pocket as he seems to imagine.

The population of the United States is about 130,000,000, all of whom will be taxed 2 per cent on all the transactions they make, which will yield all the money paid to the 8,000,000 persons receiving the pension, who will spend every cent of it as fast as received each month which will create such an enormous demand for every conceivable kind of goods and services as to require all the now unemployed to work at good wages instead of being supported by the government on dole or PWA, WPA, SRA, or other makeshifts which cost taxpayers an unbearable burden without curing the depression.

As the pensioners are not allowed to engage in any gainful occupation those under 60 years of age will be in great demand to do the work necessary to supply the constant demand for all kinds of necessities, conveniences and luxuries always desired but denied by the restricted economic system that has kept the majority of people deprived of what they are entitled to enjoy.

So the Townsend Plan not only will take care of the old people but also keep the young people employed at good wages which will remove the cause of strikes, walkouts, labor troubles, and save taxpayers millions of dollars.

Mr. Mullin's complete ignorance of the Townsend Plan is exposed in his statement that he "cannot see why what is true of an individual is not also true of a nation" and "just as the process of giving a man money so he could buy from him would impoverish an individual so also it will impoverish the nation."

The Townsend Plan could not be operated with less than a tax on all business of the entire nation which provides ample funds for its success while "an individual" could not, nor any number of individuals less than all of them paying 2 per cent. Mr. Mullin seems to think the 8,000,000 pay 100 percent when he talks of "giving a man a dollar so he can buy a dollar's worth of goods." If this were possible then all the rest of the 130 million people would pay no tax. The Townsend Plan taxes all transactions of the whole 130,000,000 including the 8,000,000 Townsend pensioners.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

A Labor Aristocracy

By GUS W. DYER

Professor of Economics and Sociology, Vanderbilt University

The frantic advocacy of the Wage-Hour Bill as a relief measure, and as a means of helping the weak is one of the fantastic policies of a political group that is difficult to clarify. If it is considered as a policy of political legerdemain, it is easily interpreted. The measure is, of course, extremely popular with the millions of wage-earners it is supposed to help. But they are totally ignorant of its real nature and effects in the world of practical business.

To make the question of raising the wages of millions of voters the chief issue in a political campaign is, of course, to win their support in the election. Who would vote against an advance in his wages? It is remarkable that Senator Pepper's majority was not greater in the democratic primary in Florida. It is preposterous to permit voters to appropriate to themselves money or property that belongs to others, simply by voting favorably on the proposition. A vote cast in consideration of a material reward to the voter is a purchased vote, and cannot, properly, be counted as a vote. But almost anything goes now.

Those who have only an elementary knowledge of practical business know that wage-earners are classified on the basis of their productive capacity, and that there is a very wide variation in the speed, efficiency, skill and productive capacity of wage-earners. The employer who employs untrained, inefficient workers at one-third less than his competitor pays for trained, efficient labor has no advantage whatsoever over his competitor, anymore than a truck owner who uses cheap gasoline has an advantage over his competitor who uses highgrade gasoline. "Cheap labor" is often the highest priced labor.

The goal of the minimum wage is 40 cents an hour. How will this affect the workers who cannot produce more than 20, 25 or 30 cents an hour? If the industries employing the low productive capacity labor should advance the wages of these untrained, inefficient workers to 40 cents an hour, the labor cost would be so great that they could not compete with the industries employing the higher type labor. Hence, these industries would be forced by the law either to go out of business or discharge their low-capacity workers and put skilled workers in their places. In either case the doors of employment would be closed to the millions of untrained, unskilled workers in the interest of the skilled workers. The result would be the creation of a skilled labor aristocracy through a degradation of the unskilled, untrained workers. The unskilled would be prohibited from competing with the skilled aristocrats.

No greater misfortune could befall the millions of unskilled workers than to have the doors of employment closed to them—than to be denied the invaluable right to work, and forced to surrender their priceless American independence and become the charity wards of the government. To deny an American citizen the right to work because he cannot qualify as a member of the labor aristocracy is to make a deadly attack on the very foundation of democracy.

These unfortunate people, it is believed, are being enticed to sell their independence for promises that will not be kept, and for rewards that they will never receive.

If the families of Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, Andrew Johnson and thousands of other great leaders had been forced on charity by a labor aristocracy, these leaders, in all probability, would have lived and died in obscurity.

This law would give a tremendous advantage to the big industries that use skilled labor over the new small industries located in small towns. The untrained, unskilled labor used by these small industries cannot produce the value of the minimum wage, hence many small industries, it is believed, would be forced out of business by their big, strong competitors.

Will Congress protect the weak and ignorant, or sacrifice them in the interest of partisan profit?

(Address questions to the author care of this newspaper)

General Hugh S. JOHNSON SAYS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Secretary Wallace is in a one-man war with the Supreme Court. He says it is trying to take over the rate-making and regulatory duties of the bureaus. He observes that a year ago the Court was attempting to determine legislative policy, got licked, retreated and is nowing attacking bureaucracy on another front.

The Secretary's rage was roused by a remark of the Chief Justice that bureaucratic control must be exercised with at least rudimentary justice. His present complaint is that delays imposed on bureaus by tests in the courts of the Constitutionality of their actions hamper democratic government. On the same day, Chairman Madden of the National Labor Relations Board, which has been under considerable fire for prejudiced, arbitrary and unfair administration, made a somewhat similar complaint.

Mr. Wallace, by virtue of his Agricultural Act, has a range of bureaucratic power over farmers never before imagined outside of the dictatorships. It is understandable that he resents any interference, whether by the Supreme Court or otherwise. A similar state of mind can be imagined in Mr. Madden.

But the nature and timing of this barrage against the Court, coupled with the two other circumstances, suggest that Mr. Wallace and Mr. Madden may be McCarthying for some Bergen. The circumstances are the general Administration attitude toward the Court and the gossip that Professor Frankfurter has begun again to flit silently through the White House doors unnoticed by the most eagle-eyed newshawks in the country.

The Professor is credited by some with inspiring the original "horse-and-buggy" attack on the Court. Mr. Wallace, for all that he signed a book on the Constitution, hardly can be expected to know enough about it to debate its finer nuances with the Chief Justice. But Professor Frankfurter does.

What we have here looks like a new executive attack on the Court, not boldly and openly as before, but cleverly, and by calling on the Administration's various Fidos and Tousers to sic 'em and bite 'em under their kimonos. The Court can't very well kick back. They are too much encumbered by the same robes of dignity.

Unless the Court overturns all it has said on the subject, it can't make rates. That is a legislative job. It can only say that specific rates are confiscatory or otherwise beyond the power of the ratemakers. Neither can the Court make regulations— for the same reason.

But the Courts are there to see that our necessarily and unavoidably growing executive bureaucracy does not simply take over the Constitutional duties of the Congress and the courts. They are the only authority under our system that can do that.

Furthermore, if citizens who claim to be aggrieved by the arbitrary exercise of delegated power beyond the limits fixed by law or the Constitution, can't have that claim tested in the courts, there is no place else to test it.

To the extent that there is delay in court procedure—and it is considerable—that is an abuse or fault in the system and should be cured. Recent amendments to the laws governing procedure should do much to cure it and if they are not enough, more should be added.

HUGH S. JOHNSON.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life

By R. C. Hoiles

THE RICH RICHER, THE POOR POORER!

Everyone constantly hears the oft repeated statement that the rich are getting richer and the poor are getting poorer. This statement is believed by many people. They think it is an easy solution to our economic problem. If we could correct this belief, we would make progress.

But is this statement true? Are the rich getting richer and the poor getting poorer? Undoubtedly it is a half-truth but half-truths are the most dangerous of all expressions. There never has been a time in all history when this statement was a full truth. It has never been true, because there always have been people on the very subsistence line and if they had anything less they would not survive. So, it is physically impossible for some people to become poorer. Therefore, half of the expression is untrue on the face of it.

As to the rich becoming richer, undoubtedly some people have become richer than they ever have in past history but many of the rich have lost and become poorer. Undoubtedly there are no men in the United States as rich now as they were nine years ago.

But would these people who complain about the rich getting richer, have them not use their facilities to add to the wealth of the world? Would the workers be better off if the wealth had not been created and preserved? If the wealth had been destroyed and consumed, would not the great middle class suffer? Is not the accumulation of capital and tools the only possible way that the great middle class can raise their standard of living and receive a higher wage for a given expenditure of energy? The rich cannot preserve their wealth without using it. And while we might think that they do not use it wisely, the people they serve believe that they are benefitted, or they would not consume their product and the people who work for them believe they are benefitted, or they would not work for them.

And the more wealth we have in the country, the larger the population can be. This is true because, with the accumulation of tools and knowledge, it requires less energy to produce a living. And consequently people with less natural intelligence can survive.

It certainly, however, is not the function of the government to attempt to discriminate against one class in favor of another; when it does, we lose democracy and progress. Democracy consists in equal rules for all, with no attempt whatever to favor any class. It is not the purpose of any farsighted government to favor one class against another.

So, when a few people get richer no one gets poorer; but the great middle class of people, by the very nature of things, have their standard of living raised.

WANTS OF PEOPLE ONLY PARTIAL GUIDE

Undoubtedly the men who acquire the most wealth are those who are guided by the wants and wishes of mankind. They foresee what people will want and attempt to supply them in a manner that will produce large volume.

It usually makes little difference to the accumulator of great riches whether the consumers are wanting something that will not be to the interest of society for them to have if it makes the individual a profit.

For this reason, the wealth that a man accumulates, cannot be used as a measure to determine the benefit he has been to society.

The real guide that should control people with goodwill to mankind is what do the people need rather than what do they temporarily want. And the individual who stands against obstacle, against popular opinion, for the fundamental principle of the universal rule and equality before the law with no special privileges or no favors to any class, is the real individual who is serving society. The man who does that is never financially rich. He can see so many things that need explaining, so many things that need correcting, he has little time to accumulate a fortune. And the fortunes that are made by people who simply supply wants of the masses, without regard to whether they are benefitting the masses, in the long run, are only the result of the patience and foresight and courage of the people who establish fundamental principles that make government less tyrannical, less oppressive and less discriminatory. The men who preach a philosophy that brings about a real universal rule government, are the real benefactors of humanity and the ones that we should all listen to under the present time when our government is so rapidly taking away the rights gained over centuries by the efforts of men who were interested in the general welfare of mankind, rather than the accumulation of large fortunes.

SCHOOL EXECUTIVES SHIRKING RESPONSIBILITY

The new policy of the Santa Ana schools certainly is playing politics. The new rule is that the executives will not be responsible for promoting or retarding the child.

It looks as if the executives are shirking their duty, when they refuse to make a decision as to whether a child should be promoted or not. It certainly shows how much politics enters into education. If the executives of the schools are simply to be mechanical, and not exercise their judgment in selecting teachers who will courageously report the true progress of the child, there is not much use of having anything but a clerical man to be the head of institutions. If he is not to use his judgment, there is no use paying for judgment. We might just as well hire an automatic machine and let the children be promoted automatically, if the executive dare not use anything but routine.

All private institutions pay for judgment. They do not attempt to mechanically establish rules that require no judgment; but that is the way of politicians—they shirk responsibility, whether or not it hurts the most important thing we have in life—the proper training of our children. We have no greater responsibility than trying to keep politics out of the training of our children.
